Marion Man Cleared Of Murder Link

Railroader Had No Connection With Columbus Slaying

The Erie Railroad section man from Marion who was questioned yesterday as a suspect in the murder of Mrs. Ruth Alter, 32, of Columbus was freed by Franklin County authorities last night. Questioning revealed he had no connection with the murder.

Lt. Ellsworth Beck, chief of the investigation bureau of the Franklin County sheriff's department, questioned the man at length yesterday at Columbus, following his arrest in Richwood Thursday night on a charge of intoxication.

He said he was satisfied the man was not the person who appeared in bloodstained clothes at a Parcel O railroad switch and hitched a ride to Marion on a C & O freight train Wednesday night after the murder. The unknown hitch-hiker remains a suspect.

The Marion man had bloodstained clothes, too, but he explained the blood was his own. He was able to produce proof that the day of the murder he was at work on an Erie section gang here. The bloodstains, he explained, were from two fresh cuts on his hands sustained in a fall after he had been having a few drinks in a Marion tavern.

One of the clinching proofs which helped free the Marion man was the absence of scratches on his face. The man who hitched a ride on the C & O had many

TV Shows Will Be Earlier Because Of Time Change

Marion and Marion County will remain on Eastern Standard Time tomorrow but will feel some minor effects of tomorrow's switch to Eastern Daylight Savings Time in other parts of the country.

Radio programs will remain the same except for normal corrections. This is made possible by transcribing eastern network shows and playing the transcriptions at the regular broadcast time here.

But television programs will be from a half hour to an hour and a half earlier in the afternoon and most night shows will be an hour earlier. Televiewers should check program listings daily until they become familiar with the new schedules.

Two of the most popular late hour shows have become casualties of the time change and will not be seen here. They are "Breakfast Open House" on WLW-C and the NBC network and "The Nightcappers" on WBNS-TV on the CBS network. Both are being replaced with film features.

Railroads will continue on Eastern Standard Time as usual but several schedule changes have been announced, to go into effect with the time change in the east. Railroad patrons today were urged by Robert H. Stief, ticket agents at Union Depot, to call 2-2607 for information before making reservations or buying train tickets.

MacArthur To Head N. Y. LoyaltyParade

Expect Half Million Marchers for Fourth Annual V.F.W. Event

NEW YORK, April 28 —(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur, after triumphant visits to Chicago and Milwaukee, today will review New York's fourth annual loyalty day parade featuring an estimated half-million marchers.

The general will head the huge Fifth Avenue procession in an automobile from its starting point at 95th street to the official reviewing stand at 67th street.

There he will be presented with a medal by Charles C. Ralls, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sponsors of the parade since 1948 to counteract left-wing May Day activities.

The medal for the ousted Far Eastern commander was voted by the V.F.W. at its encampment last August in Chicago. In a statement to the encampment, MacArthur suggested American occupation of Formosa. President Truman then asked the general to withdraw his statement. It was the first open break between MacArthur and the administration.

40 Bands

The pass of paraders will be augmented by elaborate floats, about 40 bands and several dozen nationality groups wearing costumes of their native lands.

In line with the war veterans will be labor, civic, church, patriotic and political delegations.

Plans to have Gen. MacArthur and Francis Cardinal Spellman ride together in the parade were canceled last night. One report said the Cardinal asked to march in the parade with representatives of other faiths, as he has done in past years.

The New York Times said protests by protestant groups and individuals caused the change in plans, with MacArthur riding only with city officials and military aides.

MacArthur is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Commenting on The Times story, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, an aide to MacArthur, said:

"We know nothing about it. The general always abides by the arrangements made by the planners of any function."

Meanwhile, J. Joseph Smith, commander of the New York County council of the V.F.W., and grand marshal of the parade, said the change was made after an aide for Cardinal Spellman telephoned V.F.W. headquarters requesting that the Cardinal be allowed to march in the parade as in previous years.

Knows Nothing

As for the report of protests having been received by the V.F.W., Smith said, "I know nothing about it."

Last night, about 200 persons watched MacArthur's plane land at International Airport after a flight from Milwaukee, his former home, where he was honored with a giant reception yesterday.

Alighting from his plane, the Bataan, the general said:

"It was a wonderful homecoming the folks tendered me in Mil-

Price for Freedom Announced

Vogeler Released From Hungarian Cell; Joins Wife

VIENNA, April 28—(AP)—The Communist Hungarian government freed American businessman Robert A. Vogeler today. He returned swiftly to Vienna and a tearful but joyous reunion with his wife and two young sons.

Vogeler, 39-year-old vice president of International Telephone and Telegraph Company, reached his home in the American sector of Vienna at 1:23 p.m. Austrian time (7:23 a.m. E.S.T.).

He was released at the Austro-Hungarian frontier exactly one week after the Hungarian government promised to set him free from the 15-year sentence it imposed on charges of spying. He had served more than 17 months.

ROBERT A. VOGELER

Nobody Happier

"Nobody can be happier than I am," he exclaimed a short time after he crossed into Austria at the border village of Nickelsdorf. He was sped in an American diplomatic car to Vienna where he was met at the gate of his suburban home by his beauteous, blonde wife, Lucille, 34, his sons, and his wife's sister, Pia.

Simultaneously with his release, the Hungarian government in Budapest announced the price that was paid for Vogeler's freedom.

1. The United States promised to open the Hungarian consulates in New York and Cleveland that were closed last year.

2. It will lift the ban on travel by American citizens to Hungary.

3. The Voice of America will stop using the wave length of radio Munich for its broadcasts.

4. The U. S. government will help to return Hungarian property carried off by the Nazis in 1944 to the now American-occupied zone of Germany.

The terms, which the Hungarian government described last Saturday as "just claims," were not confirmed immediately by American officials.

After Vogeler stepped from the car in front of his home, his wife fell into his arms. He embraced her. There were tears in the eyes of both as they hugged each other briefly and then turned and went into the house.

No Words

Neither said a word. Their two sons, Bobby, 11, and Billy, 9, whooped with excitement as they clung to their parents and disappeared into the house.

Five Austrian policemen guarded the fence around the house to prevent entry by the score of photographers and newsmen waiting at the entrance.

Vogeler looked pale and thin but otherwise appeared in good health. He was clean shaven and neatly dressed. He wore a dark blue suit and a white shirt. U. S. Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly said Vogeler was in good shape. Col. Grant Williams, Austrian representative of I. T. & T., said he thought Vogeler ought to get back to New York pronto but

Broke Under Pressure, Newsmen Told

VIENNA, AUSTRIA, April 28—(AP)—Robert A. Vogeler said today about his trial before a Hungarian court:

"I am sorry I did not perhaps live up to the American tradition under pressure."

He presumably was referring to the confession he made before the Communist court sentenced him to 15 years imprisonment.

The International Telephone and Telegraph Company executive made his comment when he walked into the garden of his home to pose for photographers with his family.

In a slow, halting voice, Vogeler told newsmen:

"During 17 months in prison I have been thinking about this reunion. Though I had no news during my imprisonment, I knew that I had many good friends and could count on the Americans."

Vogeler had obvious difficulty controlling his speech. His mouth twitched as if he were under a terrific nervous strain. Then he went on:

Sorry

"I am sorry I did not perhaps live up to the American tradition under pressure," his voice broke and he paused. A reporter asked him:

"But you are innocent, aren't you, Mr. Vogeler?"

Vogeler smiled wryly, and in ob-

Support of Bond Issue Urged

Harding Poor School In Point of Space

This is one of a series of articles explaining urgent need for passage at the May 8 primary of the $2,900,000 bond issue for a new senior high school and for modernization and addition of facilities at other schools. The articles were prepared by the Citizens' Committee formed to promote passage of the bond issue.

* * *

RECENTLY a national magazine in an issue devoted entirely to public education included a test to evaluate the high school of any community. There were three classes of schools. The best schools were rated from 127 to 147 on a point system, average schools were rated from 105 to 127, while the poorest schools were rated 45 to 105 points.

A test conducted by Harding High School students on this basis rated Harding High at 99 points, or near the top of the poorest group of schools. The rating is no reflection on our teaching or our students. We have a corps of able teachers and one of the finest student bodies in the country. The reason for the poor showing is almost entirely a matter of inadequate building space.

All other schools in the Buckeye League—the league in which Harding competes in athletics and music—have buildings with almost twice the space of Harding, though their enrollments run from 500 to 700 students as compared with 970 at Harding.

Harding High School was built for 700 pupils. The enrollment will continue to grow from the present 970 to a peak of 1,600 by 1964, with an average enrollment of 1,200 during the next 15 years.

Our high school lacks classroom space and space for normal high school activities. Sophomores have no physical education because of lack of gymnasium space. Assemblies must be held at the Palace Theater. Although we have a good vocational school at Harding, we have no industrial arts for the boy who does not wish to specialize in machine shop or auto mechanics. Meetings of students sometimes must be held in corridors because there is no other space for them. There is no lunchroom although 400 Harding High School students do not go home for lunch.

To take care of the regular academic classes, several of them meet one hour before the regular school day in order to have space to meet at all. Harding High School cannot properly house a modern high school program with its present enrollment. With the added enrollment that we will have in the years just ahead, it will be impossible to offer Marion children a proper high school education.

The need for a new building is urgent.

Gov't Clamps Ceilings On Meat Prices

Order Due Tonight; 4-5 Cents a Pound Cut Due by August

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—The government raised its price cleaver today for a swing at the high cost of meat. Officials said a four to five cents a pound cut in beef prices to consumers is due by August with a similar slash to follow next fall.

Actual dollars-and-cents ceilings on beef prices will be announced tonight.

One official told a reporter the orders will provide for progressive rollbacks in the prices of live cattle—a new method in food price control. These rollbacks are due in three stages.

The official said the first "sizeable reduction" will be ordered immediately. This will be accomplished by setting ceilings on the amounts slaughterers may pay for cattle. It was understood that the first cut would amount to five to 10 percent.

An Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) first said wholesale and retail prices will not be reduced on the first go-round but there may be some adjustments next month as a result of the live animal cuts.

Postponement of the first reductions at wholesale and retail levels will give feeders who fatten cattle for slaughter a chance to clear their pens of animals for which they have paid high prices, an official explained. Otherwise, he said, the feeders would face heavy and perhaps ruinous losses.

Due in Mid-Summer

The first cross-the-board cut in wholesale, retail and live cattle prices is due in mid-summer, probably around August, an official said. The second across-the-board cut is set in the orders for next fall, he added.

Assistant OPS Director Edward F. Phelps called a news conference today to outline the orders to newsmen. They will be made public tonight. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle is out of the city filling speaking engagements.

It was learned a two-week delay in issuance of the beef price orders steemed from a dispute between DiSalle and Department of Agriculture officials over the proposal to cut live cattle prices. It was known that DiSalle had been holding out determinedly for such cuts.

Agriculture officials were reported objecting on the ground that cutting cattle prices might discourage production. Livestock breeders from the west had vigorously protested the planned cuts.

DiSalle reportedly contended that such cuts were necessary to make possible lower consumer prices. He took the view that high cattle prices could be cut without endangering the potential meat supply.

White House Move

One source said the final decision to go ahead with the beef orders was made at the White House level.

In the meantime, Joseph M. Jacobs, Chicago attorney for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, wired economic stabilizer Eric Johnston, urging immediate approval of an 11-cent hourly wage boost in the meat industry.

Johnston had turned down the wage agreement between two unions and three large packing firms because the pay raise would exceed that allowable under the wage control policy. That limits wage boosts to 10 percent over January, 1950, levels.

Jacobs said Johnston should approve the agreement to be consistent with his approval of a six-

Power Shovel Reports Ample Order Backlog

The Marion Power Shovel Co. has a backlog of orders on hand and in sight which, barring unforeseen contingencies, should be more than ample to keep the plant working full blast for the rest of this year, stockholders were informed today in the company's quarterly report.

Sources of materials and supplies to support this production are fairly well provided for.

Rising costs of materials and labor and added costs caused by subcontracting some of the company's work may result in the narrowing of the company's profit "spread" between sales prices and total costs, the report said.

The company's net income for

Reds Occupy Vital Highway Hub 11 Miles From Seoul

A NORTH KOREAN TALKS. A stringy-bearded North Korean, holding an American cigaret between gnarled fingers, talks with gestures to a Marine patrol which flushed him out of the hills in North Korea while advancing ahead of tanks. He seems eager to tell his captors all he knows about the Chinese Communists who shortly were to unleash the fury of their spring offensive.

Orderly U.N. Withdrawal Continuing

Allies Abandon Uijongbu; Take Heavy Toll of Reds

TOKYO, April 28 — (AP) — Communist troops today captured Uijongbu on the historic invasion route only 11 miles north of Seoul.

The U. S. Eighth Army announced the vital road hub was in enemy hands but gave no details.

Allied forces on the Korean western front began falling back through Uijongbu Friday.

Allied artillery in Seoul fired throughout Saturday at the onrushing Reds.

United Nations forces continued pulling back on central and eastern fronts but reported no contact with the Reds.

The Red Korean Pyongyang radio said Saturday night that Communist reserves had reached the battlefront. The official Communist station usually reports developments at least three days after they take place.

The broadcast heard in Tokyo said "Korean and Chinese People's Volunteers are now inflicting heavy damage on the enemy throughout the front. We have this time poured a new reserve force on the battlefield on one of those fronts and it is taking a heavy toll of American lives."

Allied battlefront sources, however, said the withdrawal was in good order.

All along the 100-mile battlefront forces have pulled back into South Korea.

41,500 Red Casualties

They have killed or wounded more than 41,500 Reds in their fighting withdrawal.

The Reds mounted their biggest offensive on the western front. Some 300,000 troops were driving on Seoul.

Tens of thousands of civilians fled the South Korean capital.

A South Korean flag flew over the big gray city hall in Seoul Saturday, but the building was empty.

A British regimental sergeant major directed the removal of the British royal crest from over the door of the British embassy.

Thirty American cargo planes landed Friday at Kimpo, big airport northwest of the old capital, with war supplies. The planes carried away Allied military personnel.

Some of the planes returned to their bases in Japan punctured by bullets. There were no reports of casualties.

On the east-central front, Red forces crashed into United Nations positions before dawn Saturday east of Yanggu, but failed to crack the line.

About 100 North Koreans cut through the no-man's-land section around the abandoned town at the east end of the Hwachon reservoir.

It was the only major action Saturday along that sector.

Close Trap Too Late

In the west-central sector, the Allies gave up Kapyong to the Reds. Kapyong, 35 air miles northeast of Seoul, is on the Chunchon-Seoul highway.

The Reds cut the highway too late to trap any United Nations forces. Eighth Army headquarters reports said all U.N. forces had quit the area.

Chuchon itself still was in Allied hands. But it was in the path of another 100,000 Reds coming south down the mountainous spine of Korea.

Field dispatches said Communist pressure was being exerted the Hwachon reservoir area north on Allied troops falling back from of Chunchon.

Apparently, however, all Allied troops late today were safely south of the 38th Parallel in that sector.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army Commander, was not telling the Reds just how far south the U.N. forces would withdraw.

Natural Gas Tank Blows Up

Blast, Fire Rout 150 Coeds From Missouri Dormitory

MARYVILLE, Mo., April 28—(AP)—A natural gas tank blew up today near a college dormitory crumbled one wall and sent 150 girls fleeing in nightgowns and pajamas.

"I thought a bomb had hit us," said Miss Sue Hood, 18-year-old coed, who sped barefoot out of the burning building onto the campus of Northwest Missouri State College just after midnight.

Thirty girls were injured or burned and 17 were detained in the hospital. There were no fatalities despite the violence of the big blast that pitched one sheet of steel four blocks and shot flame hundreds of feet into the sky.

The explosion popped plate glass windows in the business district 10 blocks away, severed a water main and silenced telephones in part of the city of 7,000 in northwest Missouri.

Don Robey, insurance man, said "My wife and I were driving towards the campus when we heard the first explosion. There was a second blast, then a third and a sheet of flame shot hundreds of feet in the air."

Inside the dormitory, only about 100 feet from the big gas tank, coeds were asleep or preparing for bed. Their curfew was midnight and many had just said goodby to their dates in the lobby of the three-story brick building.

Except for a dance scheduled tonight, most of the students would have been away on a Friday night.

The shattering blast of about 80,000 cubic feet of gas awakened the sleeping and ended the lingering bull sessions. Panic-stricken the students fled.

Coed Tells Story

"I was in a third floor room," said Miss Hood, from Breckenridge, Mo. "I was sleeping near the window and the first thing I knew there was an awful boom. The window shattered all over the room in tiny pieces. Plaster fell on us.

"I jumped out of bed and ran I was wearing my nightie and I didn't stop to put anything else on."

Miss Wilma Watkins, 22, of Braymer, Mo., said, "Fire was shooting along the walls and ceilings as we ran out."

Men who had recently left girls in the dormitory raced back to help. They rescued Amie Meadows, a cook, from under masonry. As one the town seemed to awaken and lend a hand. Firemen came down from Clarinda, Ia., 30 miles north, and St. Joseph, Mo., to the south. The combined efforts extinguished the fire in two hours.

When dawn broke and they got a good look at the scene many remarked: "It's a miracle they all got out alive."

Iran in Crisis Over Seizure Of Oil Industry

Cabinet Falls; New Premier Expected To Be Anti-British

TEHRAN IRAN April 28—(AP)—The Shah of Iran sought a new premier today to lead his country out of the oil nationalization crisis which brought the sudden downfall of Premier Hussein Ala's government.

In an air of tension the Majlis (lower house) met in secret session and reportedly voted to recommend the appointment of Dr Mohammed Mossadegh anti-British leader of the nationalization drive as the new premier.

The Majlis deputies had been summoned to a special session to vote on immediate government seizure of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, the British-owned monopoly on Iran's oil.

Majlis president Reza Hekmat was said to have left for the palace to inform the Shah of the House's recommendation. Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi is not legally bound to follow the recommendation.

One source said that of 99 deputies at the secret meeting, 79 voted for Dr Mossadegh.

The corridors of the parliament building buzzed with rumors as officials scurried in and out in the midst of the biggest Iranian government crisis in recent years.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Shah might dissolve the Majlis in an attempt to install a stable government.

While the Majlis was in session, the Shah summoned white-haired Seyed Zia Eddine Tabatabiae, 58, to the palace.

This gave rise to rumors that the Shah was asking Seyed Zia, exiled for almost 30 years after he led a coup d'etat in 1920, to become premier and seek to restore order to Iran, rocked by a month of strikes and rioting in the southern oil fields and the violent nationalization drive.

Seyed Zia is regarded by western diplomats as pro-British and anti-Russian.

Remains in Seclusion

Meanwhile, Hussein Ala, who precipitated the government crisis when he and his cabinet resigned last night in a surprise move, remained in seclusion.

The 68-year-old Ala, long known for his moderate policies and pro-western leanings, apparently felt unable to cope with the nationalist demands.

Informed sources said Ala told friends that he was resigning because the special parliamentary oil commission rushed through Thursday night the resolution to take over the Anglo-Iranian oil company immediately without consulting the government.

Gunfire Breaks Out In Textile Strike

WAKE FOREST, N. C., April 28—(AP)—Rifles, shotguns and pistols crackled in a raging battle here last night at the strike-crippled Royal cotton mill.

Three persons were slightly injured as gunfire exchanges followed a dynamite blast.

The violence erupting on the 25th day of a seven-state strike of CIO textile workers in almost 50 southern mills was the worst of several recent outbreaks. Several dynamitings have been reported at the Dan River mills at Danville Va. Others have been reported in North Carolina.

ENTERTAINS CIRCLE

Mrs. J. S. Nesbhait of 234 South State street entertained members of Circle 7 of the W.S.C.S. of Epworth Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Ray Wilson president, presided. During the roll call 36 sick aills were reported made. Miss Nellie Bain conducted the devotions, using as her theme, "Faith." Mrs. Wilson read a poem, "It Can Be Done." Mrs. Arthur Smith read an article from the Methodist Woman. Mrs. George Wilson closed the program with a piano solo. Guests were Mrs. E. E. Burney and Mrs. J. D. Jones. The May meeting will be held with Mrs. R. W. Van Meter of near Marion.

Giant Bomber In Collision; 14 Airmen Killed

CARNEY, Okla., April 28—(AP)—A giant air force B-36 bomber and an F-51 fighter plane collided during a mock air raid on Oklahoma City yesterday, plunging 14 airmen 15,000 feet to their deaths.

Four members of the crew parachuted to safety.

An Air Force announcement said early today that "14 men are presumed to be dead or missing"—13 on the bomber and the fighter pilot.

At first it was believed 16 were aboard the huge B-36, but later officials said there were 17.

The F-51 pilot was First Lt. Fred W. Black, Oklahoma City. Other victims' names were being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Bodies and debris were scattered over a mile-wide area in an oat field.

The tragedy near here was the air force's second costly mishap in two days. Eleven crewmen were killed and five injured when a B-29 cracked up and burned Thursday in the Azores while making an emergency landing.

The B-29 was stationed at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, N. M., and was on a training mission.

The F-51 disintegrated. The six engine B-36, stationed at Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth, broke up into huge chunks.

The B-36 was getting ready to make its simulated bombing run on the capital city—50 airmiles to the southwest.

Apparently the fighter plane struck the big bomber between the wing and tail section.

The tail assembly was a mile north with three bodies nearby. Across a section line was the bombers nose with seven more dead airmen. The impact of one body caused a 10-inch impression in the earth.

Atlantic City, which had indicated interest, is reported to have withdrawn from the competition.

Mrs. Brinkman To Judge Baking Exhibit

"Ohio Cake Lady" To Be Here For Fine Arts Day Program Tuesday

AN ADDED feature has been arranged for the annual Fine Arts Day observance of the Marion County Federation of Women's Club Tuesday, May 1, at the Marion Country Club.

For the pleasure of members and patronesses, Mrs. H. H. Brinkman of Westerville, who is affectionately recognized as "The Ohio Cake Lady," because of the many and famous cakes she has constructed for famous people and outstanding occasions, will be present.

She is a member of the Hobby Hall of Fame and she has on display in the New York National Hobby Museum a turkey cake which she made. Among the many cakes she has made was a replica of the Freedom Train, which was presented to the Marines serving on the Freedom Train. The largest cake she ever made was sent to Chanute Field in Illinois. During the time Mrs. Clarence J. Goldthorpe served as president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, she baked a cake which was a replica of the emblem of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. This cake alone served 250 persons.

Cakes For Bromfield, Bricker

Among those who have received her special cakes are Louis Bromfield, Sen. John Bricker, when he was governor of Ohio, and Joe E. Brown. She also baked a wedding cake for a cousin of the Duchess of Windsor when she was married.

Mrs. Brinkman will speak to the group briefly on "Secrets of Cake Baking," and will serve as judge for a cake baking exhibit, for which each club will contribute a cake decorated to suggest a special occasion.

On exhibit during the day will be thirty oils and water colors from the lending gallery of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, and Miss Eleanor Derby of the Columbus Gallery, will be present to talk to the group on "Pictures for the Home." She will draw illustrations from the pictures on display.

Miss Derby received her B.A. degree from Oberlin College where she majored in history and principles of fine arts, and now is employed as assistant to Ted Malone, director of the Columbus Gallery. She is acting superintendent of the lending gallery.

The ambulance, siren wailing, failed to dodge a slow-moving motorist causing another mishap. Burtrom's injuries mounted. To make matters worse, Burtrom's insurance company demanded to know which accident was responsible for which injuries.

That was anybody's guess.

GENEROUS GIVER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) — The late Elwyn Waldran didn't have money to give away, but he gave blood 99 times before he died. Waldren, a former fire department captain, first donated blood to save a small boy and then kept it up as long as he was physically able.

All Depends on Householder

Imagination Can Give Real Personality Tone To About Any Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Staff Writer

It'll take more than a hypodermic needle plunged in your front door to inject personality into your home. The ingredients which go into making your home warm, cozy, attractive and friendly depend on you.

You'll need more than dollars. You can buy the most beautiful and expensive furnishings available and your home will look as if it has rigor mortis, if you have not used your own personality to enliven the background.

The tiniest innovations by the householder can give home a delightful life.

TAKE THE KITCHEN for instance. Instead of cramming your shelves full and complaining that you need more space, why not improvise? Put glass shelves in your windows to hold an overflow of glasses. Three or four shelves at the top windows (which can be removed in the summertime) can hold 40 or 50 glasses and add a distinctive touch to your kitchen windows. Instead of curtains, put up practical and interesting bamboo blinds or leave the windows bare except for the shelves.

If you still are cramped for cupboard space after getting rid of your glasses, build a Lazy Susan into the space where two corner cupboards join. If you haven't an amateur carpenter around the house who can do this simple job (just a pole set in sockets with circular shelves around the pole) it will pay you to hire a carpenter to build it for you. It will enable you to stack its shelves full of grocery supplies which can be reached conveniently when the shelves are swung around.

Inexpensive shutters can be used to separate two rooms where there is no door.

* * *

HERE'S ANOTHER space saver: You know how exasperating it is when you are right in the middle of preparing shrimp curry and you grope around in the closet and produce every jar but the curry. Well, that little problem is eliminated by building yourself a spice rack, which will not take up an inch of important space.

All you do is measure the length of your cupboard and get a length of board about one-half inch deep and 2 inches wide. Fasten screw top caps from mayonnaise or other jars, all the same size to the under side of the cabinet as near to the wall as possible, screw the jars on to the caps and you have perfect spice holders. Paste labels on the jars so that you can quickly spy "allspice" and "whole pepper" and other spices and herbs which might resemble each other.

Most people follow the pattern that the only art permissible in the kitchen is a calendar. Use instead attractive prints or original paintings of kitchen scenes, fruit, hanging ducks, etc.

* * *

IN A DEN or one-room apartment, you can have a lot of fun making something out of nothing or making things do doubleduty.

Ugly green filing cabinets become handsome cabinets to be used on either side of a studio couch when painted to match the decor of the room. Paint the handles gold and rub in some of the gold powder into the paint on the cabinet just before it dries for a smooth finish. You can do the job up brown by putting antique mirrors (smoked mirrors) or dark place mats on top of the cabinet. Place lamps atop them.

Attractive lamps for a den or one-room living can be made out of old coffee grinders, toy soldiers, bronze figurines, old pitchers butter tubs, whisky jugs or milk jugs.

* * *

AN ATTRACTIVE cocktail table for an informal room can be made from a huge drum or a small hobby horse or any old table which can be cut down to size. If the top of the table is warped or otherwise unattractive, cover it with magazine covers, match covers, velvet, gold paper, crushed flowers, etc. Shellac it and put glass on top, and you'll have an original table.

A delightful three or four-part screen can be made for a den by pasting the entire screen with Christmas cards or magazine covers, shellacing over all.

Even in a formal living room you can incorporate some of your own ideas here and there for original and decorative touches.

End tables or coffee tables can be put together by combining large papier mache or tole trays and ordinary luggage racks which make excellent stands.

Put a shelf above the door to exhibit a prize collection of glass animals, pitchers, colored glassware or copper.

* * *

A LARGE old-fashioned tin coffee or tea canister salvaged from an old-fashioned coffee store makes an unusual wood chest next to the fireplace. An old butter churn sanded, shellacked, polished and shined makes a good umbrella stand.

The bathroom can take a little glamor, too. A wooden what-knot can be antiqued or painted the same color as the bathroom to hold an overflow of cosmetics and medicine — much better than an over-crowded medicine chest.

* * *

BEDROOM FURNITURE can be painted, pickled or refinished in its natural wood for new interest. To rejuvenate an old vanity table, remove the triple mirror which is attached to it, antique or pickle the the rest of the vanity. Then put up a long mirror the length of the vanity table on the wall behind the table. A long bench with a cushion covered in the same material as the draperies will add to the charm of this dressing table.

Dull old head and foot boards can be remodeled by removing these pieces completely or by covering them with plywood. After the plywood is put firmly in place, it can be covered with plain or tufted plastic or fabric to give a new look to that old bedroom set.

Paint chests, bureaus or other pieces to match the vanity table.

Mother's 'Phone Call Saves Son's Life

FALLS CITY, Neb. — (UP) — Mrs. Everett Strough, even more than she knew, was saving her son as she waited for him to come home from a weekend party.

It was early in the morning when she noticed a fire in the living room of her neighbor's house. The neighbors were out of town so she called the fire department.

Firemen found her son, Richard, 16, asleep on a davenport, surrounded by flames. He had wandered into the wrong house and gone to sleep on the davenport with a cigaret burning.

Stassen Asks Reconciliation

WASHINGTON, April 28 — (AP)—Republican leader Harold E. Stassen wrote President Truman today that "for the good of America" there should be "a reconciliation between you and Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

In his letter, Stassen said:

"If the disagreement runs its bitter course to the end, whatever its outlook may be, it can do no good for our country. . . .

"I therefore ask with humility that you consider extending an invitation to Gen. MacArthur to meet and confer with you."

Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, told a news conference he delivered the letter to the White House this morning.

He said he did not see the President, nor ask to see him, but gave the letter to Matt Connelly, Mr. Truman's secretary.

At the same time, Stassen said, he sent a telegram to MacArthur in New York.

Stassen told MacArthur about his letter to Mr. Truman and said he had made it clear that "I had not spoken to you directly or indirectly, but that I was confident from my knowledge of you over a period of years that if such an invitation is extended you will accept."

Stassen also told MacArthur:

"I feel very deeply that for the good of America a reconciliation should be brought about between you and the President."

Tanker Skipper Found Negligent, Loses Papers

MOBILE, Ala., April 28—(AP)—A veteran ship master convicted of negligence in a tanker collision which killed 39 seamen planned today to fight a Coast Guard order barring him from sea duty for life.

Coast Guard examiner Daniel H. Grace permanently revoked Capt. Edwin C. Geick's sailing license. Grace suspended the license of third mate Jesse A. McLean for three months.

Grace ruled that negligence of the two officers contributed to the collision of their tanker, the Esso Suez, and the Esso Greensboro.

He said the Suez master failed to reduce speed of his engines when entering a fog area, and failed to navigate with caution when another ship had been spotted on his radar.

Adds Insulation, Rigidity

New Roof On Old Has Some Extra Advantages

If you need a new roof on your house, there are definite advantages in laying it right on top of the old roof.

Removing an old roof costs money, creates considerable dirt inside and outside the house, and deprives you of the rigidity and added insulation value to be gained by a double roof.

Prepare your old roof carefully before you start to lay new shingles. Replace any missing shingles. Nail down all loose shingles. Split and flatten down all warped or curled wood shingles.

Cut away about two inches along all edges of the old roof and fill the spaces thus created by nailing strips the same thickness as the old roof. This will give you solid nailing surfaces along the edges and will result in a neat trim.

Feathering strips, which are slightly beveled strips of wood, are then nailed along the butts of the old shingles. This provides a smoother and more even surface.

The choice of the fire-resistant roofing materials is important. These may be asphalt shingles, asbestos shingles, tile or slate—if you can afford the latter.

Slate has become a luxury roofing material. It is almost prohibitive for low and medium cost homes in most sections. A slate roof for a one-story six-room house of average size often is quoted at more than $3,000. But of course it is virtually a permanent roof. Patching is the most it will ordinarily require.

In most parts of the country, the most economical fire-resistant roofing is the asphalt shingle. This type, according to the Department of Commerce, is now used for more than 80 percent of all house roofs. It is manufactured with a top surface of embedded mineral granules.

Asbestos shingles are more fireproof, of course, but more expensive.

Proper nailing is vital to the life of almost any roof. Six nails are specified for each three-tab square butt asphalt shingle. If enough nails are not used, or if they are not put in the right places, wind can get under the shingles and cause real trouble.

Additional wind-tightness is obtained by cementing down asphalt shingle tabs. Quick setting asphalt cement, applied with putty knife or caulking gun, holds down the center of each exposed tab.

If you prefer wood shingles, or live in an area where they still are economical and are permitted by your local building code, be sure to specify a vertical or edge-grain shingle. They are much less vulnerable to fire than flat grain shingles and burn more slowly.

An edge-grain shingle, cut from heart wood, and fastened down curl. Roofs of this type have been with rust-proof nails, will not known to last until worn down only by sleet and sand storms. Red cedar is the most common of durable types. Cypress is usually more expensive but practically everlasting.

LAWYERS ARE SMART

BOSTON — (UP) — A Boston lawyer has discovered an ingenious method of discouraging friends from stopping him on the the street for free advice. When they begin talking, he snaps on a stopwatch. When they have finished, he turns it off. At the end of the month he sends them a bill, charging by the minute.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

BOB HOPE CHECKS HIS MITT for broken bones after making the acquaintance of the Super Swedish Angel in the above scene from "The Lemon Drop Kid," uproarious comedy based on a Damon Runyon story. It will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace Theater. Marilyn Maxwell is co-starred.

Bob Hope Show Opens At Palace Tomorrow

Bob Hope's latest comedy, "The Lemon Drop Kid" opens Sunday at the Palace Theater and will continue through Wednesday. Teamed with Hope is Marilyn Maxwell, and Lloyd Nolan and Jane Darwell play supporting roles.

Adapted from a famous Damon Runyon story, the tale in "The Lemon Drop Kid" follows The Kid, a hilarious racetrack tout, in his attempt to raise $10,000 which a tough New York hoodlum has dropped on one of his phony tips. The gangster gives The Kid till Christmas—which is 23 days—to raise his ransom. If he can't produce, he must submit to the scalpel of an unlicensed practitioner named Sam The Sugeon.

Opening a bogus home for old women, The Kid enlists the help of his Broadway cronies who include con men, safe crackers and pickpockets. Dressed as Santa Clauses and equipped with bells and pots, they solicit contributions on New York's busiest corners.

Playing Thursday through Saturday will be a double feature, "Sante Fe," photographed in technicolor and starring Randolph Scott with Janis Carter, and "Cause for Alarm" starring Loretta Young, Barry Sullivan and Bruce Cowling.

"Sante Fe" tells the story of one of four Canfield brothers, veterans of the Confederate Army, who, after the Civil War, goes west and becomes assistant to the Sante Fe Railroad construction chief. His brothers join an outlaw gang. One of the brothers is killed holding up a train and Scott fails to prevent his brothers from setting out on another train robbery. Joining a posse, he battles the outlaw gang on a freight train.

Starting next Sunday will be "Father's Little Divident," starring Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett and Elizabeth Taylor with Don Taylor and Billie Burke.

Paul Henreich Stars In Movie at State

"So Young, So Bad" starring Catherine McLeod and Paul Henreid, and "Gun Crazy" with Peggy Cummins and John Dahl, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State Theater.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Alcatraz Island" and a technicolor musical, "Tea For Two." The former stars Ann Sheridan, and heading the cast in the latter are Doris Day and Gordon MacRae.

George Montgomery and Brenda Marshall are the stars of the film, "Iroquois Trail," which will be the main attraction of a double feature playing Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "The Savage Horde" starring William Elliott and Adrian Booth.

"A Modern Marriage" At Ohio Monday

"Only The Valiant," starring Gregory Peck in the role of a U. S. cavalryman during the stirring post-Civil War period, will be shown for the last times tonight and Sunday at the New Ohio Theater.

It covers the dramatic period when Indian conflicts menaced the settlers of the early southwest and tells the story of one particularly exciting episode which occurred during that time.

Peck plays the role of Captain Richard Lance, an officer admired by his men as a soldier yet hated for the iron qualities of discipline which made him a great leader. Exciting moments occur when Peck takes a patrol out in a desperate effort to save an entire fort from annihilation.

In supporting roles are Barbara Payton and Ward Bond.

Starting Monday to play for four days is a drama dealing with marital problems, "A Modern Marriage," starring Margaret Field with Reed Hadley, Robert Clarke and Nana Bryant. As a part of the billing, on stage will be Earl Adams, commentator.

The film is the story of a girl whose inhibitions bring her unhappiness in marriage and the resultant attempt at suicide.

Billed to start Friday is a double feature, "You're In the Navy Now" starring Gary Cooper and Jane Greer, and "Ghost Chasers" with Leo Gorcey and the Bowery Boys.

"You're In the Navy Now" is a behind-the-scenes glimpse of what the U. S. Navy is and does and is concerned with the Navy's "90-day wonders" and the struggles with a top-secret projectile tried out with sub-chasers in World War II. As an engineer who has never sailed a ship, Cooper is placed in command of a new type of submarine chaser. The crew also is a 90-day wonder group which knows practically nothing about the sea. Arising from this situation are incidents which are both funny and exciting.

scratches on his face, Brakeman W. H. Smith said.

Acting Police Chief Captain Hardin said today that so far local police efforts to find a trace of the man who came here Wednesday night on a C. & O. freight train proved fruitless.

Nevertheless, both city police and sheriff's deputies continue the search here.

Sheriff Ralph J. Paul of Franklin County said last night he had called Columbus police to aid him in the search for the murderer.

Salesman Quizzed, Released

Columbus police had already picked up an itinerant Bible salesman on the basis of resemblance of his clothing and blue car to that of the as yet unfound man seen entering the vestibule of the Alter home the morning of the murder.

The Bible salesman was released, too, after he was able to prove where he was the morning of the murder and account for his activities since, Lt. Beck said.

A door-to-door salesman carrying a black brief case and driving a blue Chevrolet, who was seen entering the Alter home the morning of the murder, remains the top suspect.

Police believe that if they find him they may have the man who beat Mrs. Alter to death with a "loafer-type" man's shoe while her 18-day-old son slept

The same man was believed seen at a service station in the neighborhood about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday. He has been variously described as a magazine salesman, later as a seller of auto polish because a sponge used by such salesman to demonstrate was found with some blood-stained cleansing tissues near the scene of the murder; and more recently as a shoe salesman. He is described as five feet seven inches tall, around 155 pounds, smooth shaven and smooth faced and dark haired.

Student Held For Writing Obscene Letters to Truman

COLUMBUS, April 28—(AP)—A 22-year-old graduate student at Ohio State University was arrested yesterday and charged with writing obscene letters to President Truman and threatening his life.

Secret Service agents said they apprehended Robert T. Taudlitz of Columbus within hours after he mailed two letters to the President. Post office employes spotted the obscene matter and called the Secret Service.

An agent said Gaudlitz signed one of the letters which was addressed: "To that jackass (HST) in the White House, Washington, D. C." It read:

"You ——: This stupid bungle of kicking MacArthur out should entitle you to the electric chair.

"However, if that is not done by Congress, you may be sure that I will take it upon myself to see that your head is blown with a high powered rifle if you ever stick your nose in Columbus.

"How could I serve my country better?"

The other letter, written on toilet paper, was addressed: "To that pile of —— who lives in the White House, Washington, D. C." It read: "You traitor! This is what I think of you."

Gaudlitz was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newlon and held in city prison in default of $2,000 bond.

Reduce Rates On 7,720 Seats

COLUMBUS, O., April 28 —(AP)—Applications for tickets to Ohio State University football games next fall will be mailed to faculty, alumni and team "benefactors" next Tuesday, Ticket Director Ed Weaver announced yesterday.

But the best news for John Q Citizen is that prices on 7,720 of Ohio stadium's 78,513 seats have been reduced.

Bleachers will be erected in front of the stadium walls, replacing all field boxes. These seats will be on a reserved basis, but the price will be cut from $3 50 to $3.00 for the 4,200 seats.

Also to be cut is the price for some 3,500 seats in the south bleachers, back of the goal posts. They will be placed on a non-reserved list and be sold on a week-to-week general admission basis for $2 a seat. Last year they ranged from $3.00 to $3.50.

Weaver expects last year's total home attendance of 399,000 for five games to be surpassed. He also believes the total of 52,050 season books sold last year will be matched or bettered this year despite an expected drop in student enrollment. Students bought 18,200 books in 1950.

Students may buy one season book—two if married—when they register for the fall quarter. Faculty and university employes have until Sept. 1 to apply—alumni and benefactors until July 14. The sale to the general public begins Aug. 1 when application blanks go out to regular purchasers.

Prices for the annual spring clinic game May 12 will be 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for high school or younger students. The seats are not reserved.

IBERIA, April 28 — Iberia's Presidents moved into the second round of the Morrow County baseball tournament yesterday at Cardington by blasting Edison, 18-1. The game was called at the end of the fifth inning by a tourney 10-run lead rule.

Dareld and Don Rhinehart, Iberia hurlers, allowed only three Edison hits while the locals were garnering 10 blows from the offerings of Edison pitchers. Cardington and Marengo will meet tonight in the final first-round game.

SOLD—Gene Bearden, one-time star Cleveland pitcher, was sold by the Washington Senators today to the Detroit Tigers for an undisclosed amount. Bearden, who pitched Cleveland to the American League pennant in a playoff game at Boston in 1948, has been far off form this season. He came to Washington last August for the waiver price of $10,000.

Pep Wins Bout; Wants To Delay Try at Saddler

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28—(AP)—Swift-punching Willie Pep, ex-featherweight champion, listed his 106th professional fight in the records today—a ten-round win over young Eddie Chavez. But in his own words, he isn't ready yet to try to regain the title he lost last fall.

In the dressing room, last night, after he had given the 20-year-old lightweight prospect from San Jose a boxing lesson, the Hartford, Conn., flash said:

"I'm not right yet for Sandy Saddler. I need a few more fights."

He weighed 127¾ pounds to 135 for Chavez.

Pep lost, regained and then dropped the title to Saddler. A fourth championship match between the two is expected to be signed for Yankee Stadium in New York this summer.

A crowd of 10,386 accounted for gross gate receipts of $42,608.60 to see Pep in his first appearance on the west coast.

Walloping Willie had too much experience for the California Maxican, whose pro career started 16 months ago. Pep, an 11-year campaigner and featherweight titleholder for seven, outboxed Chavez; danced in and out and feinted him into openings almost throught the bout.

The referee and one judge voted in favor of Pep, and the other judge called it a draw.

Springfield In O-I Win

In a game at Richmond, Ind., Springfield Hurler Malcolm Landry pitched a five-hitter to give the Giants a 6-3 victory in the Ohio-Indiana League. Landry didn't allow a solid hit until the sixth inning when Catcher Dick Burt doubled with two mates on base to send home the first two Richmond runs.

Landry struck out six and walked eight in going the distance.

Yoter's Crew Meets Lima Twice Sunday

Special to The Star

NEWARK, April 28—The Marion Red Sox fractured Newark's modest two-game winning streak here Friday night by blasting the Yankees, 16-3, before 923 fans. It was Newark's first defeat of the 1951 Ohio-Indiana League season.

Tonight the Marsox open a three-game series against Lima. A twinbill is on the agenda tomorrow with the Phils, the first game starting at 1:30 p.m. The second contest will be a seven-inning affair.

Marion, defending league champion and playoff winner, jumped off to a roaring start with five runs in the first inning.

Those five runs would have been more than enough for Southpaw Dick Tarys who went the distance.

Fans Nine

The cool working lefthander fanned nine batters, walked only four and allowed eight well-scattered hits.

Tarys had one bad inning, the fifth. With one out, Newark loaded the bases on three singles, one of them a scratch. Then Tarys hit Ray Dominic, batting for pitcher Don Nuetzel, to force in a run. Bill Lege was called out on strikes, but Manager Bunny Mick walked to force home another marker. Stan Rosenzweig ended the frame with a routine fly to left

The Yankees got their other run on a single by Lege and Mick's two bagger in the seventh.

Use Five Hurlers

Newark used 18 players, five of them pitchers in an attempt to stop the rampaging Marsox. Bill Ford, who started and failed to last the first inning, was the loser.

The five Yankee hurlers walked 19 batters, hit another one and gave up 10 hits.

Centerfield Phil Rinzi of the Red Sox collected four hits, one of them a double, batted in four runs, scored twice, walked twice and reached base on an error.

Shortstop "Peppy" Vinci knocked home four tallies with a pair of doubles.

Bucky, Marion Getting Top-Notch Pitching

Washington, St. Louis Proving Biggest Surprise With Fast Takeoff in Race

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Washington Senators and St. Louis Cardinals are the real surprise clubs of the early 1951 season.

Bucky Harris' Senators were consigned to the second division in pre-season polls. The experts smiled politely when Manager Marty Marion and Owner Fred Saigh talked about the "contending Cardinals. Today both are in first place.

Washington's dazzling spurt on sensational pitching shot the Senators to the front of the American League pack Six of Bucky's eight starting pitchers went the route One was lifted for a pinch hitter after eight innings Gene Bearden, the only starter to be knocked out, was sold to Detroit.

"Or Else"

"Go the route or get out" seems to be Bucky's new deal.

Sandy Consuegra, the second half of Bucky's rhumba twins, did his stuff on the sorry Philadelphia A's last night with a five-hit 6-1 job. Thursday night his countryman, Connie Marrero, stuffed a one-hitter down the A's throats.

Washington historians claim the Senators are off to their best start in history with a 7-1 record. Of course, the A's were convenient four-time victims. In the last four games, Philadelphia has scored a total of two runs. The A's have lost eight in a row.

Gil Coan led the 10-hit attack on loser Carl Scheib and two successors with a triple and two singles.

Marion's pitching has been even better than Washington's with five complete games and two shutouts in seven starts.

Gerry Staley shut out Chicago, 3-0, with six hits for his second route-going job against the Cubs. He has allowed only one run in 18 innings and the entire St. Louis staff has yielded only two runs in the last 37 innings.

Ex-Giants

A couple of ex-Giants, Willard Marshall and Sid Gordon, made life miserable for Leo Durocher's Giants with home runs in Boston's 7-3 victory. Marshall's came in the sixth with two on to send Boston on top for keeps. Warren Spahn was the five-hit winner.

Gil Hodges continued his power hitting with two homers and a double in Brooklyn's 11-5 rout of the Phillies. Joe Hatten, although knocked out in the ninth, was the southpaw winner.

Ralph Kiner's first homer wasn't enough to save Pittsburgh as Cincinnati grabbed a 7-5 decision. Ewell Blackwell picked up his second win although he needed relief help from Howie Fox after six innings

In the American League, all the western teams were idle. The only action in addition to Washington-Philadelphia was the Boston Red Sox 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Mel Parnell became the first Boston pitcher to go the route, allowing nine hits including Joe DiMaggio's first homer. The Sox ripped into Vic Raschi, who shut them out opening day, for all their runs.

BARNEY WORKS OUT. Rex Barney, Brooklyn Dodger speedball pitcher, pushes his daughter, Chrissy, 3, on her velocipede outside their apartment in Brooklyn. Buzzy Bavasi, vice president of the Dodgers said that Barney had written him asking that he be placed on the voluntarily retired list. Bavasi said no decision will be made immediately on Barney's request and that the pitcher will remain on the roster. Barney, who has a no-hitter to his credit, was more than usually wild during spring training as he attempted to throw his fast ball.

WELL-LOCKED BOX

MOOREHEAD, Minn. (UP)—A high school student, Warren Clark, exercised his wits by devising a safety deposit box with four interlocking locks which must be opened in sequence. The principal lock is opened only with the use of electricity, so that the owner must be near an electrical outlet to get the box open.

Reds Down Pirates; Kiner Raps Homer

CINCINNATI, April 28—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, with the taste of victory in their mouth, climbed over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-5, in a five-star thriller last night.

There was one significant deficiency though, as the Reds won their second straight to make their record 3-6 Ewell Blackwell got credit for his second win, but only because of three rounds of brilliant relief hurling by Howie Fox Blackie looked as if he had little more than a prayer.

After the Rhinelanders gave him a four-run cushion in the first two frames, Blackwell was nicked for a run in the second, two more in the third, and then surrendered the lead on Ralph Kiner's first homer of the 1951 season, a two-run poke into left centerfield.

Joe Adcock's inside-the-park home run, following a pass to Bobby Adams in the sixth, proved to be the winning blow. Adcock's hit was a 430-foot drive to the exit gate in right center field Earlier, Grady Hatton clubbed starter Murry Dickson for a two-run homer.

The Reds greeted Dickson with a pair of runs on three hits and three walks in the initial inning. They picked up two more quick counters in the second. Hatton's smash coming after Adams' infield hit.

The Reds gained an insurance run in the ninth on a double by Ted Kluszewski and three straight walks.

Hermie Wehmeier is scheduled to make his first start of the season against the Bucs today. He'll be opposed by Con Dempsey, lanky rookie right-hander.

Ohio Wesleyan Relays Open

DELAWARE, O., April 28—(AP)—The 20th annual Ohio Wesleyan high school team relays got under way today and Cleveland East Tech and Springfield were favored to walk away with the Class A honors.

The two teams have between them copped nine championships in the last 10 Wesleyan relays, Cleveland taking five and Springfield four

Cleveland East Tech won last Saturday's Mansfield Relays, but today's event is run on a team basis instead of an individual basis. Thus Springfield, which placed fifth last week, had a good chance to win today's championship because of all-around excellence and depth of talent.

Forty-seven schools are competing Twenty of them are Class A schools and 27 Class B Each school has entered four men in each track event and three in the field competitions.

Salem, Oak Harbor and Poland Seminary were expected to fight it out for the Class B crown.

Indiana in First Big Ten Defeat

CHICAGO, April 28—(AP)—Indiana dropped out of the Big Ten's group of undefeated baseball teams yesterday bowing to Illinois at Champaign, 15-0.

The Hoosier loss left three teams undefeated in conference play: Illinois now has won three, as has Northwestern, and Ohio State has won two Indiana has won one and lost one Northwestern's third Big Ten victory came yesterday at Lafayette, Ind. The Wildcats shut out the Boilermakers, 6-0 In the only other conference game, Wisconsin, last year's co-champion with Michigan beat Minnesota at Minneapolis, 7-4.

The scheduled game between Michigan and Iowa at Iowa City was postponed because of rain. Ohio State lost to Western Michigan, 3-2, in a non-conference contest, Michigan State was not scheduled.

Harding Thinclads Win Fremont Night Relays

Hold 24-Point Margin On 2nd-Place Sandusky

The Harding High School track squad raced to its second championship of the Fremont Night Relays last night at Fremont. Coach Kenny Somerlot's tracksters built up a 24-point margin over their nearest competitors, Sandusky High School.

Harding posted eight first place finishers and placed high in all events to take the meet with little trouble.

John Ashworth established a new school record in the 880-yard run. His time of 2:6.1 was the best mark ever posted in the event by a Harding runner.

Three Firsts

Paul Ludwig posted three firsts for the locals to pace the Prexie scoring with 19 points. He also filled a spot on Harding's mile relay team.

One of the closest races of the meet was staged by Harding's Ted Price and Skidmore of Sandusky in the mile run. Price took an early lead and never was headed as he beat off several challenges from the Blue Devil ace.

Dick Tway tangled with Jim Holtzmiller, Sandusky's all-around athlete, in the final quarter of the mile relay. Holtzmiller put on a tremendous burst of speed in the stretch to nip Tway at the tape.

A temperature drop in the early evening forced Coach Kenny Somerlot to keep his runners warm while waiting their events.

Return Try

The locals will return to Fremont Tuesday to take part in a triangular meet with Findlay and Fremont. Their next home appearance will be next Friday when the Harding Relays are held at the stadium.

Results of yesterday's meet follow: Harding, 85; Sandusky, 61½; Fostoria, 33⅓; Fremont, 29½; and Port Clinton, 16.

Big Weekend Seen On Local Courses

Golfers Ready To Test Links

By JOHN SHORT

Golf bags, clubs and balls will be taken out of storage this weekend as local golfers appear to be getting their first break in the weather.

Linksmen have been waiting for spring weather for several weeks and will not sit idly by without touring their favorite course this weekend.

The move began today as both the Marion Country Club and Mar-O-Del courses accommodated large crowds. Yesterday's high mercury readings and sunshine this morning were all that was needed by the local enthusiasts who have been waiting for a break for several weeks.

Fine Shape

Both courses are in excellent shape and although actual tournament play is not scheduled until next month, practically every swinger in the county will tour the greens.

JACK STODDARD

Jack Stoddard, Country Club pro, said a golf exhibition is planned for the first week in June. Although definite plans have not been set, Stoddard said a big-name golfer would appear. In addition to the visiting golfer, exhibitions would be given by Red Redman, Marion County champion, Stoddard and the Marion Country Club champ. The tournament season doesn't open at the Country Club until May 19, he added.

The Country Club women will get their first chance of the season next Thursday morning when Stoddard opens a school of instruction at the course. Group lessons will be conducted by Stoddard and his assistant, Ray Stoddard, will conduct the classes.

The Mar-O-Del course operated by Marion Hinklin is in near perfect condition for the links invasion expected this week.

A condition of the agreement with the packers would void the pact if governmental approval is not obtained by May 5. The 120,000, C.I.O. workers affected have threatened to strike if the contract is not approved The A.F.L. union, representing another 105,000 workers, has not announced its plans.

Other Developments

In other price-wage developments:

1. The Labor Department reported that price rises in food and farm products pushed up the government's wholesale price index by 0.3 percent during the week ended last Tuesday.

2. The Department of Agriculture said the general level of farm prices dropped about two-thirds of one percent from mid-March to mid-April. However, an official pointed out that this decline occurred before the period covered in the Labor Department's latest wholesale price index.

3. Edward P. Morgan, OPS enforcement director, announced the first big batch of court actions in holding the price line will be taken next week in Washington, Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., and other eastern cities. Morgan said one prosecution is in the list Others involve damage suits against alleged violators and petitions for court orders to bar continuance of practices against price orders

4. Slaughter quotas for all species of livestock were announced for May, to be effective April 29 OPS said the quotas are designed to insure normal and orderly distribution of meat to consumers and to prevent black marketing.

The quotas provide for slaughter within the accounting period beginning April 29 of these percentages of live animals killed in the corresponding period a year ago:

Ninety percent of the cattle live weight; 80 percent of the calves, sheep and lambs live weight; and 110 percent of the hogs.

The quotas apply to more than 11,000 slaughterers registered with OPS. Only registered slaughterers, except farm slaughterers, may kill livestock for meat.

"Oh no, I'm guilty, according to the Hungarians I am a combination of Dick Tracy and . . ."

He paused again, and one of his sons suggested "J. Edgar Hoover"

"Yes, that's right," Vogeler said.

"I would rather not say anything more now," Vogeler went on. "I am not concerned for my own safety, but I am anxious about . . ."

Again his voice failed, but he presumably was referring to Edgar Sanders, British accountant sentenced to 13 years in jail at the same trial as Vogeler.

Interview Later

"I cannot collect my thoughts properly now," he went on, "but if I am able to give you all an interview, I will do so. I am not trying to be a prima donna, and I will let you know when I can."

Vogeler, showing the strain of being photographed, then turned and went back into his house.

While Vogeler was being photographed, U. S. High Commissioner for Austria Walter J. Donnelly arrived for the second time at the Vogeler house. Earlier in the day he had told Mrs. Vogeler the joyful news her husband was on his way.

"I am glad to greet Mr. Vogeler after his 17 months in prison," Donnelly said, "and to express the pleasure of the American people that he is back with us again."

Menzie Gov't In Australia Wins

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, April 28—(AP)—The coalition government of Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies appeared tonight to have been returned to power despite gains made by the Labor opposition in today's parliamentary elections

At the close of counting tonight, still incomplete returns showed that a slight trend toward the Labor party, led by former prime minister Joseph B. Chefley, would cost the 16-month-old Liberal-Country coalition government about five seats.

Loss of five seats would leave Menzies with a 69-52 majority in the House of Representatives, the lower house of parliament In the last house, Menzies controlled 74 seats to Labor's 47.

Sweet Hour of Prayer

An old carver dictates a poem—

Everybody in Coleshill, England, knew William Walford. On Sundays he preached around at different churches for his minister friends. During the week the townsfolk made his little trinket shop their favorite meeting place. He was forever whittling out novelties for children and he made his scant living carving items from ivory. Though his life was filled with adversities and he had seen many "seasons of distress and grief" there was something uplifting about the old carver's outlook on life.

One day in 1842 when Congregational Minister Thomas Salmon stopped in Walford's shop he found his friend with more on his mind than his carving and usual optimistic philosophy. He had composed a poem and he asked the Rev. Salmon to take the words down as he recited them

SWEET HOUR OF PRAYER

Sweet hour of prayer! Sweet hour of prayer!
That calls me from a world of care,
And bids me at my Father's throne
Make all my wants and wishes know n;
In seasons of distress and grief,
My soul has often found relief,
And oft escaped the tempter's snare
By thy return, sweet hour of prayer.

Sweet hour of prayer! Sweet hour of prayer!
Thy wings shall my petition bear
To Him whose truth and faithfulness
Engage the waiting soul to bless;
And since He bids me seek His face,
Believe His Word and trust His grace,
I'll cast on Him my every care,
And wait for thee, sweet hour of prayer.

Sweet hour of prayer! Sweet hour of prayer!
May I thy consolation share,
Till from Mount Pisgah's lofty height,
I view my home and take my flight;
This robe of flesh I'll drop, and rise
To seize the everlasting prize,
And shout while passing through the air,
Farewell, farewell, sweet hour of prayer.

Three years later, on a visit to New York, Salmon presented the old carver's poem to the New York Observer. It was printed in the September issue of 1845 but nothing of note came of it until 14 years later. Then, in 1859, a copy of it came to the attention of New York's organist and composer William Bradbury. In addition to directing choirs, writing music for some of the most famous hymns and manufacturing organs, Bradbury published some 60 hymn books. He immediately saw in Walford's poem material for a hymn, set it to music and published it.

The reason William Walford had asked the Rev. Salmon to take down his poem while he dictated it was because the old carver was blind and couldn't see how to write.

The Kingdom of God

A Sermonette

By REV. DON HOCHSTETTLER

Pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church

"The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto a treasure hid in a field which . . . when a man findeth selleth all that he hath and buyeth the field." —Matthew 13:44.

THE "KINGDOM of Heaven" is never a far-removed figment of human desires, but always represents the rule of Christ in the character of man, and exists entire apart from the technicalities of any specific membership of the trite definition of creeds.

It is that which transpires in the deepest consciousness of every aspiring man who, at one time or another finds himself alone upon an "Exceeding high mountain" with "all the kingdoms of the world" spread before him. He is aware that possession of these sensuous glories are his for his choosing.

If, then, in the fascination of this vision he is sound enough to pause and in contemplation of the cause and purpose of the Infinite and see, be it ever so dim, the hazy outline of divine will, he draws himself up to say, "It is written, thou shalt worship God and Him only shalt thou serve" He it is who, turning his back upon the low-lying possessions which he can see, seeks to serve the Spirit of the Highest whom he cannot see. He is not of this world, but "being justified by faith" assumes his citizenship in Heaven.

• • •

IF, ON THE other hand, a man should choose the sure things at hand as of more worth than the inheritance of the Kingdom by faith he make known the preference of his heart by his choice and assumes the citizenship in the kingdom of "this world." In any case, that which is born of the spirit is spirit and that which is born of the flesh remains flesh.

The Kingdom of God is truly like the treasure hidden in the field awaiting the discovery of the searcher, the field being the life of man itself. "The Kingdom of Heaven is within us" and by the Light which "lighteth every man" we find it to possess and keep as the guarantee of immortality.

• • •

ONCE HAVING assumed the citizenship in this Kingdom, it, of necessity demands an allegiance to the Lord of the Realm. Can I longer hold my one thousand shares with "Affiliated Robberies," keep my seat with the "Scornful," retain the "Counsel of the ungodly," or maintain in a contract of any kind with the "Wicked?" Can I any more entertain an inordinate ambition to "Shine" in any of its numerous selfish demonstrations? If our citizenship is indeed above, "then seek those things which are above" which indeed, is the price of the treasure within the field. "All that he hath" it is written, and the divine evaluation of entering the Kingdom knows no deflation.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve" was the challenge hurled by Joshua to the Hebrews in the wilderness and with a strange appropriateness we hear the same challenge in the moral and spiritual wilderness of today. But the offer of citizenship in the Kingdom of Heaven is still proffered and still holds the promise of all things added to those who will seek it first.

PROOF of its healing power

The way to health and harmony among men is earnestly and unselfishly sought by both Science and Religion.

Many divergent methods confront mankind. But the claims of all ultimately submit to one test — the test of proof.

The final chapter in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, consists of 100 pages of unsolicited testimonies from persons healed by reading this book alone.

All testimonies have been carefully authenticated. All manner of disease and discord has been cast out permanently and promptly. This is the proof that Christian Science provides of its healing power.

Science and Health may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.

U. S. Offers Advice On Cerebral Palsy

WASHINGTON—(UP)—New services, including advances in medical care, are increasingly available for the 175,000 children with cerebral palsy, a disease once regarded as hopeless.

Up-to-date factual information prepared especially for parents of children with cerebral palsy is summarized in a new booklet, "The Child With Cerebral Palsy," just issued by the children's bureau and the office of education.

The booklet emphasizes that while mental deficiency sometimes is a result of the disease, by no means all children are retarded. Even the brightest, however, need early attention, both medically and by special training techniques.

Parents are warned not to "isolate and overprotect" their cerebral-palsied children. Instead, the children should be encouraged to play with other youngsters, to attend school, and to do as much as possible for themselves.

Bible Is Translated Into New Tongue

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Three natives of the Solomon Islands and an Australian missionary have completed a translation of the Bible to the Marovo language.

It was a task started 30 years ago by G. F. Jones, pioneer Seventh Day Adventist missionary to the Solomon's Marovo Lagoon. Pana, Tasa, and Rini are the three native Adventist pastors who helped complete it.

World War II forced evacuation from the Solomons shortly after work on the New Testament had been finished. At the close of the war, the Old Testament translation was begun and final portions were worked out in Australia with the help of A. R. Barrett, Adventist missionary there.

While portions of the Bible are available in 1,118 languages and dialects, complete translations have gone more slowly. Publication of the Marovo version will make the entire Bible available in 191 languages.

ON THE HOUSE

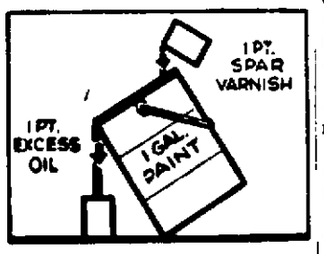
By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

(Second of Two Articles on Mildew)

• • •

THE APPROACH of warmer days means here comes the mildew season.

Since mildew can raise hob with wood, fabrics, leather, paper, paintwork—almost everything in your home—it's a good idea to fight it and keep it down.



The prevention of mildew is a lot easier than its cure. The first step is to eliminate all causes of dampness and to keep your house well aired.

Don't let damp of wet clothing lie around. It's prudent to dry all soiled clothing before putting it in a laundry hamper. Keep dishcloths, washcloths, towels and wet shower curtains spread out to dry.

The housewife who sprinkles her laundry and then puts off the ironing soon learns about mildew. She has a tough job to remove the stains—if the fabric hasn't actually rotted.

Soiled fabrics mildew more rapidly than clean articles. So it's unwise to store clothing that has not been laundered or dry cleaned. Also molds feed on starch and sizing. Starched shirts often mildew in damp unventilated drawers. It's safer to sun and air stored clothing periodically to be sure it remains dry.

• • •

MILDEW SEEMS to spread like blazes. Although all mold spots should be removed as soon as they are discovered, if you brush them off indoors the spores will scatter in the air and replant themselves elsewhere. Do the brushing outdoors or use a vacuum cleaner.

Mildew on paint will often take the appearance of a sooty or rusty deposit. You'll notice it more often on dark paint than on white. This is because the surface film is softer on dark paints such as black, brown or red. They contain more oil. White paint with its zinc and less oil dries harder and becomes more resistant to mildew.

Ordinary ready mixed dark paint can be given increased resistance to mildew in the following way: Open the can without stirring. Pour off part of the excess liquid (oil) to the proportion of 1 pint to a gallon. Replace this with a pint of spar varnish. Douglas C. Arnold, president of the Keystone paint and Varnish Corp., agrees that a harder film will be produced in this way, or by adding about a quarter-pint of dryer instead of the varnish. However, he points out that use of high quality paint obviates the necessity of such adulteration.

In places especially subject to mildew, a fungicide can be added to the paint by mixing one-half to 1 ounce of bichloride of mercury per gallon of paint in the varnish before it is added to the paint.

Whenever a mildewed surface is to be repainted all mildew should be carefully removed. Scrape it off and wash well. Rub strong laundry soap on the stains, cover with powdered starch and salt, and expose to the sun wherever possible. Otherwise soak several hours in sour milk—that's an old recipe—and then expose to the sun without rinsing. Our mothers used Javelle water successfully.

• • •

REMOVAL OF MILDEW stains has been studied extensively by the General Electric Consumers Institute at Bridgeport, Conn. It was found that fresh mildew stains on washable fabrics could be eliminated by washing promptly with soap and water, rinsing and drying in the sun. Any remaining stain was eliminated by sponging with a solution of 1 tablespoon of sodium perborate to a pint of lukewarm water. This was left to stand for a minute or two and then rinsed. However, since this is a bleach it is well to test it first on an unimportant part of the cloth.

The GE experimenters also found it effective to boil musty dishcloths and washcloths with 2 tablespoons of baking soda added to each quart of water.

A chlorine bleach worked on old mildew stains on undyed cotton, linen and rayon, followed by a dip in a weak vinegar solution to stop the chlorine action. But this can never be done to silk or wool.

• • •

A VACUUM CLEANER is very effective in removing mold from upholstery because it does not spread the spores in the air. Stains are washed, rinsed and dried in the sun. Wiping upholstered furniture with a cloth rung out of diluted alcohol, and then thoroughly dried, is another recourse.

Fumigate mildewed leather goods, remove stains by washing with saddle soap, dry in an airy place and then wax thoroughly.

Mildewed floors and woodwork can be wiped with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added and then dried thoroughly.

An electric fan and radiant heating device prove handy in such drying processes.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Sweating Closet Walls

Q.: What can be done to a closet-wall that keeps sweating? This is a cold wall, and part of the ceiling. I have used a moisture-absorber but it doesn't help much. What causes this and how can it be corrected?

A.: A second mosture-absorber would probably help. However, the trouble is due to the warm, humid air of the house condensing on the cold surface of the wall. The thing to do is to put up insulating board on furring strips, allowing air space of two inches. If the closet is too small for this, it would even help to nail the board directly on the closet walls, although the other method is preferable. Another thing to try is to put a low-watt electric bulb on a stand and place it on the floor of the closet, being very careful not to let it touch anything that might burn. Be careful of a fire hazard! The slight heat of the bulb should dry up much of the moisture.

• • •

Paint Over Calcimine

Q.: The plastered living room walls were calcimined. Not knowing what the original paint was, I applied a good grade flat, oil base, wall paint. Now in many spots the paint blisters and peels right down to the paster. I am ready to repaint but am not sure of what steps to take. What should I do?

A.: Your problem is to remove all the paint and calcimine down to the plaster. You might be able to take off most of this with a wide blade putty knife. What remains can be softened with a strong solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda—three pounds to the gallon of hot water. Apply the solution on the paint keeping it wet until softened; then take it off with a putty knife and steel wool. Another method is to make a paste mixture of dry trisodium phosphate mixed with twice as much powdered whiting and add enough water to make a paste. Apply a half-inch thick layer and allow to remain for a half-hour or so and scrape off. When paint has been removed, rinse off all traces of the trisodium or washing soda with clear water. When dry, apply paint according to directions given on the label of the paint can. Be sure all calcimine is off the paint.

• • •

Dilapidated Brass Lamp

Q.: My solid brass bridge lamp is now old and looks cheap and dilapidated. It was decorated in designs an grooves with brown enamel which is all scratched and chipped. How can I remove it and restore the lamp.

A.: Remove the enamel and clear lacquer with a prepared paint remover—get the non-inflammable kind if you can. Use it as directed on the container, after you have gone over the entire lamp with the above, polish the brass with a good brand of metal polish. When the metal is bright, wipe it with benzine, being careful of fire and finish with a clear lacquer. Since lacquer and benzine are very inflammable do the work in a well ventilated room, away from open flame.

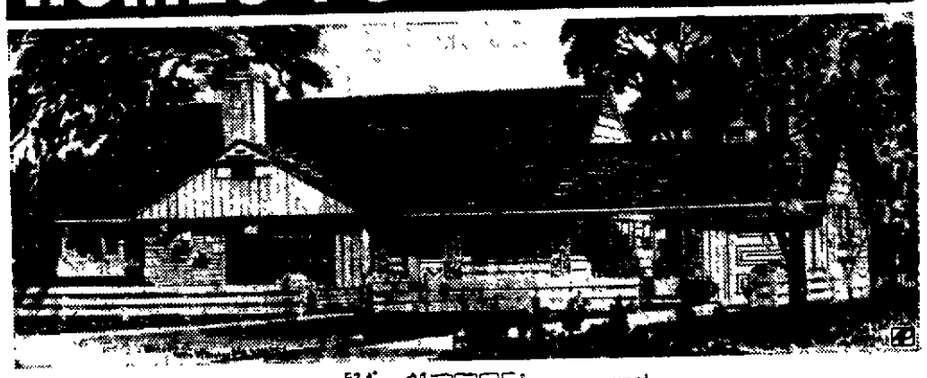
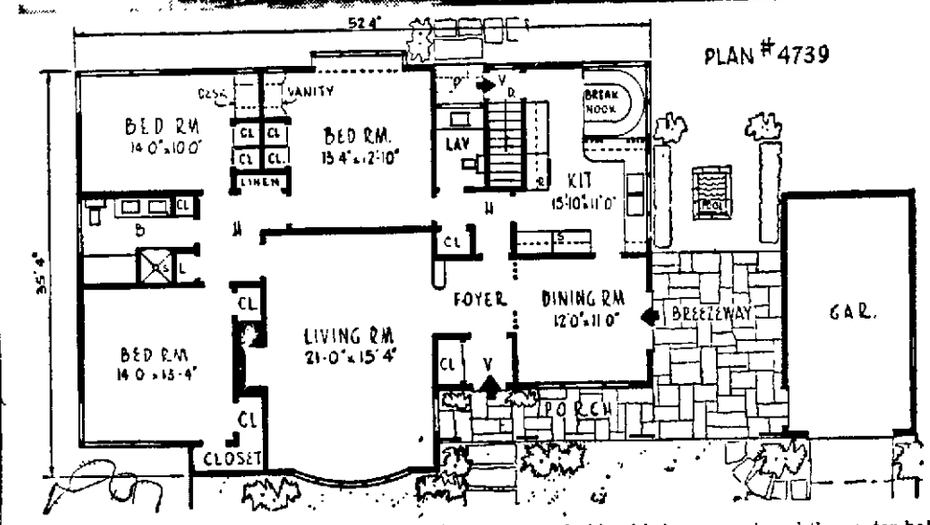
B.L.E. AUXILIARY MEETS

The Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers met Wednesday afternoon at the Legion Dugout. Initiation of one new member was held and plans made to attend a circuit meeting at Newark May 10. A dinner was held following the meeting, and an application for membership was accepted.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





SELECTED AS AN IDEAL DESIGN by the Small Homes Guide, this house combined the center hall feature of traditional colonial planning with the modern rambling one-story layout. This is Plan No. 4739 by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y., authority on small house design. The house covers 1,679 square feet, exclusive of porches and garage—a convenient figure for estimating local building cost. Front vestibule has a guest closet with sliding doors; rear vestibule offers access to kitchen and basement. The architect suggests wrought iron supports for the porch overhang for decorative touch.

Order Fixtures, Tile Early

Plan Bathroom Colors Carefully

A BATHROOM that sings with color won't hit the right note unless time is taken in planning and decorating it.

Other rooms may be painted, papered and furnished after the carpenters move out and the family is ready to move in. But the bathroom must be planned and its fixtures chosen months before a house is ready.

• • •

MANY A HOPEFUL home owner gets a shock when the contractor, finishing the foundation, asks: "Have you selected your bathroom tile and fixtures?"

You probably thought there was plenty of time for that, but he replies that it takes weeks and sometimes months to obtain certain colors.

You better get going.

If you have your own architect, he will help make bathroom color selections. Your tile and plumbing contractors will refer you to their respective manufacturers' showrooms. Some makers of clay tile cooperate with manufacturers of plumbing fixtures in matching colors exactly. As soon as you decide on the shades desired, see that the sub-contractor places his order immediately so you'll have the fixtures when needed.

• • •

IF YOU ARE having a house built in a development, you ordinarily will have a choice of tile colors, provided you have ordered well in advance.

Colors cost very little more than white in clay tile. Colored plumbing fixtures say run 10 to 25 percent more than white. But white fixtures work well with all colors.

Usually blended colors wear better than contrasting hues. Coral fixtures, for example, look well with gray tile wainscots and floors. Choice is entirely in accordance with individual tastes.

• • •

USUALLY IT IS safer to choose such accessories as towel bars, toothbrush holders and the bathtub grab bars in the same color as the wall tiles. If they contrast too sharply they stand out like proverbial sore thumbs.

It is economical in the long run to tile as much of a bathroom as possible. Paint and wallpaper over a tub are easily marred or blistered by steam.

With the combination tub-shower it is wise to tile the wall to the height of the shower curtain bar, or to the ceiling. In some homes, even the ceiling over a shower is tiled.

• • •

WHEN HAVING a bathtub installed, insist that the carpenter brace studs and joists properly and have the plumber hang the tub on angle iron from the studs. This will go a long way in preventing the loosening of cement in the joints between tub and wall tile.

However, a certain amount of settlement of the house and shrinkage of the bathroom floor is inevitable and not a fault of installation. When it occurs, get a caulking compound made for such repairs from your tile dealer or hardware store. An easy way to squeeze this into the joint is to use a cake decorator.

Blinds Flanking Doors Provide Elaborate Look

Modern building costs have made elaborate doors and front entrances for new homes expensive.

A tip for achieving the effect desired without a large cash outlay is offered by the National Association of Home Builders. It points out that a pair of blinds on each side of stock door and frame can produce an imposing decorative effect. The blinds are not hung on hinges, but fastened directly to the house with lag screws.

ENROLLS IN COLLEGE

William E. Wagner, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Wagner of 567 Girard avenue, enrolled this week at Parks College of Aeronautical Technology of St. Louis University. He has completed his high school studies at St. Mary High School and will receive his diploma in June. A member of the freshman class at the college, he plans a career in the field of aeronautical engineering when he completes his college program.

Building Inspector, Unknown By Many, Has Important Role

Many thousands of persons throughout the country owe the safety and workability of their homes to an individual they have never seen or, possibly, never even heard about. He is the unsung public servant—the building inspector.

To guard against the erection of homes which are structurally unsound or unsanitary, most communities have set up building codes—a set of rules covering what materials must be used, and how. The job of administering the code falls to the building inspector.

Often he is your only protection against an unscrupulous builder. For example, he will make certain that the concrete footings upon which the house will rest are placed on solid earth, and that the foundations will be strong enough to carry the weight that will be placed upon them.

He also examines such structural factors as the floor beams and joists, and how they are nailed; the electrical wiring, to make sure that it conforms to safety standards, the interior wall covering (usually plaster or plaster-board) to see that it is properly fire retardant.

Without the services of the building inspector, disease probably would run rampant in modern cities. For example, he guarantees against pollution of the water supply and checks against sewage which may contaminate. In houses he also makes sure that the plumbing fixtures are properly trapped and vented, so that they will not cause possible disease-breeding backflows.

Most building codes specify that the inspector must also be consulted when home owners plan major repairs. To cut corners, some home repairmen decide to do things in a way the inspector would not approve and they neglect to notify him of their plans. This is unwise. The inspector's seal of approval is your almost-certain guarantee that you have a home that is safe and sound.

Most of the world's wool, according to the National Geographic Society, comes from the southern hemisphere.

Parish Council Of Catholic Women Meets

Clothing Provided For War Relief Services Displayed

Approximately 150 persons attended the general meeting of the Council of Catholic Women, St. Mary Parish, held Thursday night in Moira Hall.

A feature of the meeting was the display of infants' and children's new clothing which the Marion Council women have either made or purchased for Catholic War Relief Services. This project has been a part of the international relations program of the Council, of which Mrs R R Poux is local chairman.

For the occasion, a special guest was Miss Marion Swickard, president of the Columbus Diocesan Council. She was accompanied here for the meeting by Miss Patricia Groom, general secretary of the Columbus Diocesan office.

Guest speaker for the evening was Rev. Father Jerome Lane, CCSS, of St. Matthew Parish in Mt. Gilead.

Miss Swickard, in her talk, discussed the approaching spring conference of the Columbus Diocesan Council, which comprises central Ohio and of which the Marion Council is a part. This conference is to be held May 20 at Zanesville. Reservations for transportation to the meeting can be made by contacting Mrs. Lewis Kraft of 299 South State street.

Rev. Father Lane, speaking on the subject "Enthronement of the Sacred Heart in the Home," discussed prayer and devotions of the family. In 1907, this religious practice was begun by the Rev. Father Eoudard Mateo, a member of the same congregation of which Father Lane is a member, and now is a worldwide devotional service. This enthronement will be sponsored in the homes of the St. Mary parish by the St. Mary Council. Father Lane was introduced by Rev. Father Hugh Murphy, an assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church.

Also speaking during the evening was Rev. Father Urban Wiggins, an assistant pastor of St. Mary Church, who urged cooperation of the members with the five point program of the Council.

Choir Sings

Special music was by the St. Mary High School a cappella choir, instructed and directed by Sister Vincent. They sang "O Sacred Heart," "O Sacred Heart I Place My Trust In Thee" and "Song of Hope."

The business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Edward Huber, president, was opened with prayer, and chairmen gave reports of the Council's five-point program. These were by Mrs. Robert McKeever, social action chairman, Mrs. Frank Powers, Catholic charities chairman, Mrs. Ray Eckenrode, religious activities chairman, Miss Mary Martha Luke, who read the report of the international relations chairman, Mrs. Poux, and Mrs. Francis Huber, P.-T.A. chairman.

A social hour followed and lunch was served buffet style. Decorations were in pink and blue in keeping with the baby shower theme of providing clothing for Catholic War Relief services.

Affiliated parish ogranizations comprising the St. Mary Council are the Altar Socity, Catholic Ladies of Columbia, Daughters of Isabella, Sewing Circle, Tuesday Study Club and the members at large in the parish.

Galion City Officials Explain Date Error

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 28—Bucyrus city officials' announcement last week that a formal hearing on the proposed rate increase sought by the Bucyrus Telephone Co. and the city's formal protest concerning the company's alleged poor service would be held before the Ohio Public Utilities Commission on May 3 was revealed to be erroneous today.

M. R. Schneider, manager of the telephone company here, disclosed that no date has been set for a formal hearing on the two problems. The May 3 date is the deadline for the company to file an answer to the city's poor service charges.

SHE WINS OVER 350,000 OTHERS. Winner over 350,000 students participating in American Legion's 14th national oratorical contest, Jeanne Dickinson, 16-year-old high school senior from Roanoke, Va., is congratulated in Richmond, Va., by Sixth District Commander Raymond P. Stultz. She is the first girl to win. Her orations on the Constitution and the Fifth Amendment netted her a $4,000 scholarship. Legion sponsors the contest to encourage study of Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

My small daughter, Faith, wriggled a bit at my demand of a promise from her, and there was distinct regret in her eyes, betraying that she had counted on listening through the keyhole once she had been left alone with the baby, although I knew she never would have let him cry. But when her head went up sturdily, and she looked directly at me with grave steady eyes, I knew that my warning would be heeded. She is tricky, unpredictable, but I always have been able to count on her keeping a promise to me.

"I know beforehand what the promise is," she said, not impertinently, but a bit ruefully, and I smiled at her.

"Suppose you tell me then, and save me the trouble of putting it into words," I said.

"You want me to promise not to listen in or even to try it," she said.

"That is exactly what I mean," I told her. "Are you ready to give me that promise?"

She went through her usual ritual of crossing her heart, "hoping to die," citing her "Brownie" oath, and all the rest of it. But when she concluded it, she cocked a calculating eyebrow at me.

"I'll give you another promise, too," she said.

From long experience, I "girded my loins" for quick and drastic action, if needed.

"Very well," I said. "Go on!"

"Well!" she said, watching me warily, "you know sometimes, people talking about 'hush, hush' stuff, forget, and talk awful loud. If I should accidentally hear anything I promise you I'll forget it, and I'll never mention it to anybody, not even you."

Her face was avid with her "besetting sin—" curiosity—and I made my face stern as I spoke quickly.

"Stop right there, Faith," I said. "I accept your promise, but there will be no loud talk. You will hear nothing at all, so do not expect it. Do you understand me?"

"Yes, Mummy," she said, disconsolately, "and I didn't mean anything bad."

"I know that," I said, stooping to kiss her, "and now, Aunt Katharine and I are going to leave you for a few minutes. Have you any instructions for her, Katharine?"

Katharine gave the child she adores an indulgent and reassuring smile.

"Not a single instruction," she said. "Young Peter is perfectly well, doesn't need anything, and is ready for play. Faith won't have a thing to do except keep him amused, and she's very good at that. And she knows that if any emergency comes up, she will knock loudly on the door, and, then, if necessary, come through it. But I'm sure there will be no emergency."

Faith's face, which had brightened at Katharine's mention of a possible emergency, was rueful again, and Katharine and I hurried out of the room. When we reached the chair in which my mother-in-law was seated, Junior and Roderick sprank forward to put us into chairs, leaving Bill, Hank, Dicky, my father and Mr. Olsen, who had stepped forward with one accord, looking a trifle embarrassed. But at a nod from my father, all of them took seats again, and "the Chief" addressed himself to Katharine.

"I am exceedingly sorry to have to disturb you," he said, "but I have no choice, and I am afraid my news may disturb you, also, Margaret."

He did not wait for my answer, but went on swiftly.

"I wish that Madam Graham, Mrs. Bickett and the baby, and my granddaughter, Faith, move into the Philip Veritzen suite, for the duration of this emergency," he said.

Bunche Opposes Any Move Spreading War

PALO ALTO, Calif., April 28—(AP)—Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations diplomat and Nobel prize winner, opposes any action to spread the Korean war—such as bombing Manchuria, as proposed by General Douglas MacArthur.

In a news conference the famed Negro diplomat said an attack on China would mean spreading the conflict to all Asia and thence to Europe, but that by confining the war to Korea, the U.N. has a chance for negotiating a satisfactory and honorable peace without appeasement.

Dog Blamed For Traffic Mishap

Man's best friend, a little black and white pup, showing nothing but affection for his master, is really in the dog house today.

The dog caused the car driven by his master, James Beaver, 45, of near Marion, to run off the road, rip out five fence posts and knock down a section of fence. The car was damaged.

Beaver told patrolmen the dog, which was riding in the front seat of his car, jumped up into his face while he was driving south on State Route 739 near Green Camp at 8 a. m. today, causing him to lose control of the car. The fence was on the farm of F. W. Long of near Marion.

Generals Do Not Compromise

IN HIS remarks at Milwaukee, Gen. MacArthur repeated the charge that allies of the United States in Korea have interfered with the efficient conduct of the war.

The question is whether this is peculiar to Korea, or whether friction between and among allies is typical of warfare. The latter gets the nod. The allies of World War I are still grumbling about real and imaginary slights. The allies of World War II are more bitter about one another than about the enemies they managed to defeat.

It is not Korea which has brought out the worst in the allies of the United States. If the "interference" can be blamed on anything of recent origin it must be blamed on the United Nations, which created an alliance in advance of a crisis. When the crisis occurred, it was met by incompatible allies. One of these, Russia, is more or less openly fighting against the United Nations. Only the United States is fighting with any conviction on the side of the United Nations. Most of the members of the alliance are plainly minded to be too busy to take up arms. And of those which are fighting, Gen. MacArthur charges all of them with being more interested in themselves than in anyone else. And that is what they, in turn, are saying about the United States.

Gen. MacArthur, who does not believe in compromise of any kind or at any time, is understandably indignant about a situation that makes no sense to him and to millions of others. But Korea is not unique in that respect. There never has been an alliance which did not find the allies almost as angry with each other as with their common enemy.

Americans at Their Best

NOW and then something happens to show us that not everybody is out to get all he he can from the other fellow and give as little as possible in return. Of course there has never been any reason to believe that a large percentage of people were that mean and selfish, especially in this nation of good neighbors. However, some do come under the classification of littleness and narrowness, and even if there are only a few, that's too many.

To offset those few, place on the credit side the group of neighbors near Prospect who got together recently and picked 22 acres of corn for a farmer who had met with an accident and couldn't tend to it himself.

Yes, there are good neighbors of that type living in Marion County and virtually all other counties throughout the U. S. and they provide the best proof that everything is O.K. and will continue so regardless of the profiteers and gougers that go with wars and rumors of wars.

The Legislature Backs Away

THE proposal for a constitutional amendment in Ohio to bar daylight time has been turned down by the commerce and transportation committee of the House of Representatives.

It is not hard to understand why the General Assembly should conclude that discretion is the better part of valor in this red-hot issue.

Adoption of such an amendment in Ohio—and the odds would favor adoption on a statewide basis—would be a challenge to the cities which customarily switch to summer daylight time. The result might very well be to make them challenge the ability of the state to enforce the amendment. That would set off an explosion over the home-rule rights of municipalities.

This explosion has been imminent for many years. Its origin is the resentment of cities against the domination of the Ohio General Assembly of urban areas. It has been aggravated by maldistribution of tax money and delay in redistricting the state to take account of population growth in urban areas.

Parity for One and All

IT MIGHT be possible to convince farmers that parity prices should be frozen for a year at a time, instead of being adjusted 12 times a year.

But President Truman's suggestion for doing this as a stabilization measure will make farmers wonder about some other measures which would fit into that pattern of stabilization.

If the parity formula for agricultural prices is going to be applied only once a year, parity formulas for industrial wages and retail prices should be applied only once a year.

Farmers have no monopoly on parity. Every wage contract with an escalator clause in it embodies the parity principle, as does every price stabilization order based on a relationship between percentages.

Many farmers know that parity has the effect of causing automatic inflation when prices are rising. But the same farmers are aware of the automatic inflation of escalator clauses, cost-plus contracts and percentage deals. It is to the farmers' credit that many of them have turned sour on parity—more of them, proportionately, than there are of wage earners, manufacturers and price jugglers who have turned sour on the built-in engines of inflation that keep them from running out of cash.

350,000 Boys in Korea

By David Lawrence

What Consideration Is Washington Giving Them?

WASHINGTON

IS ANYBODY here really thinking about the 350,000 American boys in Korea? Speeches galore are being made in Congress, but, so far as the Democratic party is concerned, there isn't the slightest evidence of any policy on the part of its leadership in Congress or the White House to bring the Korean war to a successful conclusion.

Instead, the idea of a stalemate which shall keep American troops engaged indefinitely seems to be accepted as the policy of the administration. There is to be no effort to strike back at the enemy by air or to require that Allies who are members of the U.N. should cease giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

LAWRENCE

It was the Democratic Administration which ordered the troops into Korea without ever asking for a resolution of ratification by Congress. It is the same Administration which now is committing the American forces to an indefinite period of fighting without a chance of using maximum force against the enemy.

So far as the American forces in Korea are concerned, they have been deprived of the opportunity to use the customary tactics or rules of war.

* * *

IT IS ONE of the oldest rules of international law that when an enemy force makes an attack, it can be pursued to the bases from which it came.

The Democratic party in Congress, however, takes the position that these rules must be ignored and that the American forces must continue to take punishment day after day for fear of offending our U.N. Allies or Russia.

The American people have a right to expect leadership from the Democratic party, which is in control not only of the White House but of both houses of Congress as well as the Department of State.

Yet today the United States government sits idly by and allows one of its Allies—Great Britain—to ship through Hong Kong munitions of war that are being used by the Communist Chinese.

The United States also sits idly by and maintains friendly relations with and even appropriates money to governments, such as India, which are doing everything they can to oppose American policy. Not a single regiment of Indian troops has gone to the aid of American forces in Korea.

* * *

The Congress is asked to be humane and furnish wheat to India, but is the government of Nehru humane? Hasn't the government of India done everything it could to take the side of Communist China—an enemy of the United States—and isn't it the Indian government that is really responsible for the privations of the Indian people rather than those who decline to send funds or food?

The United States sits idly by, too, and allows the legal fiction to be spread that this is a war between the United Nations and the Communists when, in fact, Britain and other U.N. governments maintain friendly relations with governments actually engaged in war against us.

One government which is a member of the United Nations—namely, Nationalist China — is prevented from aiding our troops in Korea. Within the last few days it has been announced that a military mission is going from America to help the Nationalists to defend Formosa against attack. If American munitions and military personnel can do this, they can help the Nationalists to reach the mainland as General MacArthur recommended.

But how does the American government justify its own course in arranging now for the defense of Formosa when the British government and other U.N. governments do not concur at all in the American policy toward Formosa.

* * *

WHAT KIND OF U.N. policy is it which forbids one of its own members to obey the call for reinforcements in Korea? And what kind of U.N. policy is it which permits its principal members to trade with the enemy and to carry on diplomatic relations with the enemy government?

These factors make it logical to expect that the Democratic party will have to explain its position and record on all this some day. It cannot pose as the "peace party" when in fact it has become the party that has allowed the Korean war to be prolonged instead of being brought to a quick conclusion, as could be done if General MacArthur's recommendations were followed.

Fear never won a war and public expressions of fear recently by Democratic party spokesmen may well invite further attacks from the enemy, just as the ill-fated pronouncement in January 1950 by our Secretary of State that Korea wouldn't be defended may have encouraged the Communist aggression in June 1950.

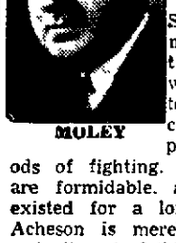
State Dept. Fighting

By Raymond Moley

AS THE great MacArthur controversy proceeds, it becomes increasingly evident that the real struggle is not among military men but between MacArthur and the State Department. True, there is the question of the agreement or disagreement between MacArthur and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. That is secondary, for in the President there is "meshed"—to use a MacArthur word—all the political and all the military authority. And since the State Department is now on the defensive, we must expect to witness typical State Department methods of fighting. These methods are formidable, and they have existed for a long, long, time. Acheson is merely the present embodiment of this system.



MOLEY

There have already appeared in the press what are represented to be the minute details of the Truman-MacArthur meeting at Wake Island. The authenticity of these has already been denied by MacArthur's spokesman, General Whitney. There will be a succession of these indirect jabs at the General. The public cannot learn the truth through such hidden sources, operating as they do without responsibility and without risk of cross examination.

* * *

ONLY A PERSON who has served in the State Department or in that part of the press which covers that tangled sector of official Washington can know how vicious and potent this form of fighting can be.

It is the business of Washington correspondents to get the news, and news is not always confined to official public statements and press conferences. There is available to the press a vast number of personal contacts and the like. There is little restraint upon important State Department officials about discrimination in the treatment of their correspondent friends. They give broad interpretations privately—

The first Sunday school in Marion was a "union" school under the regime of the American Sunday School Union, and was organized in 1828. The first superintendent probably was J. Wildbahn. Richard Wilson was an active teacher. In course of time the Methodist and other denominations established Sunday Schools of their own.

A Revealing Test of Public Opinion

By George E. Sokolsky

The World-Herald of Omaha, Nebraska has a circulation of about 250,000. It published, for one issue only, a series of 18 questions on current matters and asked its readers to express their opinions. Astonishingly, about 24,300 readers went out of their way to note their answers—which is a very high percentage, considering that the questions were printed only once.

The first question was:

"Would you vote for President Truman if he were up for re-election today?"

The replies showed that 95 percent of the men and 35.7 percent of the women would not today vote for Harry Truman. In the 1948 election, Nebraska went Republican, but by no such vote as this. Actually, this is what happened in 1948:

Dewey	264,774
Truman	224,165

The shift in public opinion is therefore enormous. What is even more astonishing is that Dean Acheson is not quite as unpopular in this Omaha poll as President Truman. To the question as to his suitability, the vote that he is unsuitable runs 94.1 percent men, 94.3 percent women.

* * *

GOING TO THE 16th question, we read:

"Would you vote for a military man for President?" To this the replies show a marked difference of opinion. The men show that 49.2 percent would vote for a military man. Surprisingly, the women run just about as the men do, 49.5 percent. Roughly, then, it shows that about half of these people oppose a military man for President, which is important, because the only military man who is now an active candidate for the Presidency is General Dwight D. Eisenhower. If the voters hold to that ratio in 1952, Eisenhower could not be elected. However, 1952 is far off and no conclusions could be reached now as to what will be the atmosphere then. Politicians, however, do take such polls as these seriously, for they are in the business of eliminating unfavorable chances.

* * *

THE REAL ISSUE of the day is expressed in this ballot in a direct and tersely written question:

"Do you think moral and ethical standards in American public service are declining?"

On this proposition the vote ran "yes" for 89 percent of the ment and 89 percent of the women. Herein lies the President's most stressed weakness. He has lost the confidence of the people. He has given the impression of being incapable of producing an efficient and honest administration. The so-called practical politics, as played by his entourage, does not impress the people as practical at all.

* * *

IT IS POSSIBLE, objectively, to say that it is no great shucks that a presidential steno got herself a mink coat and that it has happened before. As a matter of fact, gifts are accepted by public officials and their hired help often, particularly the President, who gets turkeys for Thanksgiving and cigars and such. It is all taken in good spirit.

Why then has such a rumpus been kicked up by this particular fur coat? The only answer can be that the suspicion is growing among the people that the fur coat is not an instance but a symbol. It is a symbol of constant but unproven corruption. This attitude will not die down nor can the smearing of those who speak of it affect public opinion. This country does not want county courthouse manners in the White House.

* * *

THIS APPLIES to other matters. For instance, General Douglas MacArthur said that his program had had the approval of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Up to the moment of this writing, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have not denied the truth of General MacArthur's assertion. Yet, on Tuesday, almost as MacArthur arrived in this country, General Omar Bradley attacked General MacArthur for insubordination.

The people are confused by this conflict of statements and are wondering how General Bradley could say what he did, was given the lie direct by MacArthur, did not defend his statement but the Pentagon resorted to a leak-to-a-favored-newspaper-device to ridicule but not to answer MacArthur. The people find it hard to know whom to believe in such circumstances and wonder if they are not being fooled all the time.

Our people do not like being fooled. They want to have confidence in their officials. Actually, they want to admire their officials. Harry Truman is making that very difficult.

Homecoming

By TRUMAN TWILL

IF THE kiddies can be sent out of the room for a few minutes, the older generation would like to discuss a delicate matter.

Rita has come home.

What Rita has done with her life up to now and what she may do with it in the future is her business. No great imagination is needed to see that the woman has problems greater than those which confront ordinary families whose faces and figures do not add up to SEXXXXX!

In the same way, the personal behavior problems of all glamorous people of either sex are their own business. If they want to earn a lot of check marks for bad citizenship on their report cards, that is their personal privilege.

There is, of course, a corresponding privilege bestowed on all the rest of us, which is to do our level best to keep their personal privileges from falling into the hands of people who will do anything for a fast buck. The reference is to professional exploiters who jump at a chance to display soiled merchandise. These birds have a cute angle.

They exploit morbid curiosity and do not give a whoop if the exploitation splashes dirt on the minds of the over-impressionable young. Let the kiddies look out for themselves—that's their slogan. Come a little closer, ladies and gentlemen, while Little Eva shows you what made the prince see double. And on this side, we have the dope fiend. Both for the price of a single admission, ladies and gentlemen...

That's show business. That is the way it would be done on the midway if the boys thought they could get away with it. It would be done that way on radio and television if the agencies that control the channels and wave lengths didn't do their duty. That is what all show business would be like if its own bad boys and girls were not kept in line by people with judgment and taste—and an ordinary sense of public morality.

This would be a fine time for such people to bear down on their associates drooling over the prospect of making a fine thing out of Rita's homecoming. Understand, Rita in this sense is only a symbol of a situation that has been prodding some gnawing doubts.

What the lady does with her life is her business. But what exploiters want to do with the lives of impressionable children is our business and had better be tended to, or, as was made plain recently by the Kefauver committee's investigations, when the public dozes the punks move in.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

What! No Faint Idea?

DEAR GENERAL MacARTHUR:

I read your recent statement that you did not have the faintest idea why you were stripped of your commands, and, as I like you too much to let you go around thinking it was because you parked too near a hydrant or ignored a traffic light or something like that, I have investigated and cleared everything up. I was as flabbergasted as you about the high-handed treatment and my first thought was that you had violated fundamental American principles by never taking a cigaret test, indorsing a beer, or appearing on a video panel. Then I heard a report that your dismissal was really due to the fact you forgot to send a Christmas card to General Vaughan and that the one you sent to Harry Truman was addressed to "George S." Truman by sheer carelessness. But finally I got the whole story, I think.

PHILLIPS

It all began at Wake Island where Harry flew to get away from music critics. Right away you did the wrong thing by throwing a semi-formal meal, thus preventing him from wearing a gay-colored tropical shirt, which is something he does not easily forgive. Then, just to make small talk, you asked whatever became of Margaret and was she still doing ballet dancing. You will remember the President cabled to the chiefs of staff about this and they agreed with him he should set you right and tell you that Margaret was a singer not a dancer. Also that she was doing better than you and Harry together in point of money, harmony and personal security for the immediate future. The President explained that Margaret had been signed up for a long contract in video and was going great guns. At this point, Mac, you inadvertently made the crack that you were sure Margaret would do well because music critics were eminently fair. This was the point at Wake Island when Harry began to chill up fast.

* * *

But you could not let well enough alone, General. You had to go and ask if Harry was seeing much of Drew Pearson lately. Well, this was sticking your neck away out. When you got to chatting about the two wars and asked Harry what branch he was a member of in World War I and he said the artillery and you said, without thinking, that it was the artillery work in that war which showed the need for the tremendous changes the army has made since, you were asking for it, Mac.

* * *

Of course, there were other reasons and I am surprised that you did not have the faintest idea what they were. You once made the remark you thought the Republican Party meant well, and you also made the crack that Washington was a nice place to parade in but you would hate to live there. (I am not saying you were sincere in the last half of that, Mac.) Then there was the time you forgot to license your dog, talked back to a motorcycle cop and said you had never heard of the Missouri Waltz. Remember?

I hope this gives you some idea why you were treated so roughly, but what could you expect after all those offenses? Incidentally, you say the first you knew of your dismissal was when Mrs. MacArthur got it in an afternoon radio broadcast. I hope it was not during some recorded music as I would not like to think the man I think the most colorful and forthright general of the day was fired by disk jockey.

Wishing you lots of luck I am,

As ever,

ELMER.

* * *

P.S.—I read where your son, Arthur, a kid who already has a great grip on the public, went to see the Ringling Circus the other day and I want to assure you and him there is nothing to the report the President is to dismiss him for applauding the elephants.

We are distressed by the statement of General Whitney, military secretary to General MacArthur, that the General does not read the newspapers, except for the battle report. Furthermore we fling a "Wanna bet?" at the secretary. Douglas is such a keen, alert, well-informed American that we are sure he is one of the few men who can read two papers at a time, and does.

Confident Living

The Man Who Couldn't Be Licked

By Norman Vincent Peale

AFTER our war with Japan was over, the Allied officials decided that the occupation of Japan would be simplified if we could use the great influence of the Japanese Emperor to help us establish democracy there. So it was planned that he would continue as the head of the state although it would be necessary for him to stop being that semi-mythical figure, the Son of Heaven, and become a real person representing a conquered people.

Dr. Peale

To help Hirohito change his entire concept of his office, another Japanese was sent to see him. This other man was a little fellow, not more than five feet tall, dressed in baggy trousers and a suit that even the cheapest hand-me-down dealer wouldn't look at twice. And the Emperor said to him: "They tell me you're a man of the people. How can I get to be such a man?"

His visitor fished around in his pockets for a moment and then brought out a pocket testament and read from it, "Who would be great among you, let him be the servant of all."

Apparently Hirohito is learning that lesson and he should, for his teacher that day was one of the greatest teachers of our time. He is probably the greatest man in Japan today and may also be the greatest of all living Christians. He has been compared to Martin Luther, to St. Francis of Assisi. His name is Toyohika Kagawa and General MacArthur has called him one of the greatest personalities produced by Japan.

* * *

KAGAWA IS A MAN WHO couldn't be licked. At an early age, he determined that he would try to lead the life of Christ among his people. His home was a hut; his cash resources were less than $5. He preached at street corners and told people that, if they wanted his coat they could have it, and, if they wanted the shirt off his back, they could have that too.

To make sport of him, scoffers asked for his clothes and he gave his clothes away. He had to wear an old red kimono given him by a reformed prostitute. They asked him for money and he gave away all he had. Ragged and destitute, he was beaten and kicked and bruised. But he didn't give up.

He began to organize the poor and then radical agitators stirred up the people in his organizations, incited them to violence. One day, they led a mob of thousands of people to wreck a dock area. When they reached the docks, one man stood between them and their goal of plunder. That man was Kagawa. He didn't say a word. He just stood there in an attitude of prayer. Finally, the 3,000 people before him, irate and angry as they were, one by one bowed their heads and prayed. The riot was broken up. Kagawa's organizations went on to win great victories and great reforms in pre-war Japan.

* * *

THIS IS THE MAN who couldn't be licked. They could scoff at him. They could beat him. They could heap indignities upon him. But he was never defeated. Why is that? The answer is simple enough. He believed; he had faith in his heart.

If you want to cultivate the kind of strength Kagawa has, the kind of strength that will never admit defeat, the first thing you must do is build faith in your heart. The Bible is the source-book of faith; go to it and use it to reaffirm and bolster your faith. Your church or synagogue is a temple of faith; go to services regularly and reinforce your faith with fellowship and the active practice of prayer.

The second thing you have to do if you don't want to be defeated is to conquer self-doubt. That great preacher, E. Stanley Jones, says that one of the problems that he has had to fight in his developing personality was self-doubt. And he tells us that he just pushes it away with his hands. If you can get a normal and sensible opinion of yourself, you will find this easy to do. And your faith will be a formidable bulwark against self-doubt.

The man whose faith is sure can never be licked.

OHIO FUEL BLAST TOUCHES OFF 60,000 GALLONS. Weary firefighters take a breather while fighting flames which destroyed 60,000 gallons of fuel oil and gasoline, three refinery plant buildings and a home at Troy. No one was reported seriously injured. Firemen from six communities battled successfully to save half a block of houses and nearby industrial installations. Troy fire chief John L. Kessler theorized the fire was started by two storage tank trucks which exploded after the engine of one of the trucks caught fire.

Fish Fry Planned By Progressive Grange

A fish fry in honor of the new members will precede a regular meeting of Progressive Grange Tuesday night in the Grange hall. It is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock. All members are urged to attend and each family has been asked by the social committee to bring a pie for the dessert for the supper.

Featured on the program following the meeting will be a talk by Mrs. Vernon E. Bosh, a German war bride.

GUILD NAMES DELEGATE

Mrs. Louise Coldwell was elected a delegate from the Christian Service Guild of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church to the annual Linwood Park convention to be held at Vermilion, O., June 21 to 24. The election was held at a meeting of the organization last week at the home of Mrs. LaVon Collins of 134 Jefferson avenue. Mrs. Virginia Veness was chosen as alternate. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Coldwell, president, and reports were given by Mrs. Esther Chappell, Mrs. Harriet Greenbaum, Mrs. Elsie Clarey and Mrs. Jean Roush. During the program Mrs. Ilsa Bosh, a war-bride from Breman, Germany, gave a talk on the life of her native land. A trio composed of Mrs. Vera Faulkner, Miss Ruth Zachman and Miss Neva Witthuhn sang several selections. Plans were made to hold a mother-daughter banquet May 17 at Progressive Grange Hall.

Your Good Health

Croup Needs Prompt Case

Croup can be a very dangerous disease. Known technically as laryngo-tracheobronchitis, it is an acute infection involving not only the voice-box but also the windpipe and the small tubes in the lungs. Since so many of the respiratory structures are affected, there is great difficulty in breathing, and the threat of the sudden choking off of the breath is always present. For this reason, it is important that it be diagnosed early and treated promptly.

Croup seems to occur most often during the winter months, but may develop at any time during the year. It is more common in male children, occurring most frequently in those between the ages of one and three years.

In this disorder, there is inflammation of the lining membranes of the respiratory tract, with the formation of a thick secretion. Ulcers or sores may also develop in the more severe cases.

Symptoms usually develop following a cold. There is a croupy cough, noisy breathing, and hoarseness; also, loss of appetite and, sometimes, vomiting. The child has fever and there is an increase in the number of white cells in the blood. As the illness gets worse, the difficulty in breathing becomes more severe and the child is severely prostrated.

The patient should be kept at rest in bed and given fluids by injection under the skin or into a vein. Oxygen should be administered, and the antibiotics given, the type used depending upon the kind of germs producing the trouble. Penicillin or aureomycin is usually satisfactory.

The air the youngster breathes must be kept sufficiently moist; in fact, the humidity should be 90 percent. This humidity should be obtained without using steam, since the steam heats the air. In producing the humidity without heat, compressed air is passed through a system of strainers and filters; then it is forced over a water tank and a fine spray produced.

If this treatment fails or the obstruction to the breathing is not relieved, surgery is required. The operation consists of making an opening in the trachea or windpipe so that the patient may breathe. However, if the condition is recognized promptly and treated with moisture and the antibiotics, this operation is usually unnecessary.

Questions and Answers

Mrs. E G.: What causes a dull aching feeling of the spine? It bothers me when I sit too long.

Answer: This condition may be due to some inflammation of the joints in the spine. It might also be due to some disturbance of the connective tissues, known as fibrositis, or to a muscular inflammation.

An X-ray of the spine should be taken and a thorough physical examination carried out so that the exact cause may be found.

Evangelist To Speak Sunday At Maranatha Church

Dr. Charles Halff of Tulsa, Okla., and his evangelistic party will be guests tomorrow for the second Sunday, at the morning worship service of the Maranatha Bible Church. He will preach, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Jantz and daughter of Independence, Kan., will present special music. They will conduct final service of a revival at the Coliseum tomorrow night. At 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Coliseum, Dr. Halff will preach on "Where Will Stalin Drop the A-Bomb?" His final message at 7:45 will be "Will the Four Horsemen of Revelation Six Ride the Streets of Marion?"

Largest attendance at this series of services was last Sunday afternoon when approximately 1,000 heard the evangelist tell his life story, Rev. Holliday reported. The audience included delegations from surrounding communities. Several churches in Marion have been cooperating in the services. Interest has been good, and there has been good response to the altar calls given, Rev. Holliday stated.

Tomorrow at 6:30 at the Maranatha Church, the regular young people's service will be held. "Beginning the New Life," will be the topic. In the morning at the church, there will be a junior Church for the children of the Beginner and Primary departments in charge of Mrs. Holliday. Vogeler that future plans would depend upon Vogeler's health and wishes.

"I am feeling good," Vogeler said in reply to a newsman's query. But he brushed aside further attempts to interview him immediately. It was believed he would talk to reporters later.

Vogeler earlier in the day was met at the frontier village of Nickelsdorf by Arthur Shower, American consul general in Vienna, and Halvor Eckern, a member of the U.S. legation staff.

Wave Gaily

Some 50 Austrian villagers, attracted to the scene by word of Vogeler's release, waved gaily to him as the American officials whisked him away in a legation car for the 40-mile trip to Vienna. They had a flat tire on the way in to Vienna.

Still held by the Hungarian regime was Edgar Sanders, a British subject and a colleague of Vogeler's. Sanders was arrested at the same time as Vogeler, in November, 1949, also on charges of spying. Sanders was sentenced to 13 years in prison, after both pleaded guilty and confessed in court. They were tried in the same room and by the same judge as was the case of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty a year before.

There has been no indication that the British have had any success in negotiations for Sanders' release.

Award Carnegie Heroism Medals To Four Ohioans

PITTSBURGH, April 28—(AP)—The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has cited four Ohioans for bravery in 1950.

It has awarded bronze medals to Bryon Wootton of Vermilion On The Lake, a coal miner; William C. Lane of Akron, an electrician; and Joseph A. Mariola of Akron, a laboratory technician.

The widow of electrician Albert L. Kepler of Akron, was presented a bronze medal and a month award of $80 death benefits.

Wootton won his medal for saving an injured miner in a Nolan, W. Va., coal mine when a dynamite charge exploded unexpectedly three days after Christmas, 1949.

The awards for Kepler, Mariola and Lane came from an incident in Akron last Sept. 26 in which three men lost their lives. Lane, Mariola and Kepler went down into a 40-foot deep storage tank to rescue two millwrights trapped there. Carbon monoxide gas seeped into the tank from a nearby fire. Kepler and two millwrights died. Lane and Mariola were hospitalized for several weeks.

May was charged in federal court with conspiracy and bribery. He was accused of accepting $53,000 from the Garsson brothers for using his influence as a congressman in awarding war contracts.

HOMOGENIZED VITAMIN D MILK

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

DEAR Marie Ryan. You are the daughter of a labor leader. I am the son of a labor leader. Your dad is Joe Ryan, the famous leader of longshoremen My dad, now dead, led a little union of embroidery artists. So, we both know the heartaches of men who earn their daily bread leading workingmen who sometimes grow wrathful when their union officials fail to make miracles.

Victor Riesel

We both know what millions on the outside can never know, for they never sat down to dinner with a dad who, though hungry, couldn't eat because the pressures of the day dulled for hours, the man's every sense We both know what a tough "boss" the working class itself can be

And now you write me an angry letter You are unhappy because I have publicly criticized judges, mayors, police commissioners and so-called crusading district attorneys for attending a dinner given to your father, Joe Ryan, by the Joseph P. Ryan Assn I could not write otherwise, Marie. There were tough guys there—cruel, insensate sluggers, men with long criminal records, mobsters who have hurt others—and worse.

• • •

YOU WRITE that the excellent music played until 4 a.m. and people danced . . . no one was disorderly . . . and essence of refinement prevailed . . . and by that time most of the judges had left" and that "no one needed to lend an air of respectability," as I had charged You say "it is said that talented people do not look for the good in people."

Marie, there's a morality that must never leave the men who lead labor They must be big men to justify the trust put into them by the little people who are more than faceless dues-payers. They go home to their families at night, just as your dad and mine did—weary, but with a difference.

They have chosen leaders to ease the way to their daily bread. They must not be abused. The power of millions must not be exploited for personal power, nor to transport some labor chiefs into high society all their own, with a snooty class which becomes an unapproachable hierarchy, disdainful of the common man who gave it power.

• • •

I KNOW THAT your father, Joe Ryan, has done well for his union people. Where wages were 75 cents an hour, they are now $2 an hour base pay; and four bucks an hour if the cargo handled is made up of ammunition or noxious stuff. I know that pensions now reach from $100 a month, for single men, to $140 for married men (including social security.) And I know this matches the gains won by so beloved and unimpeachable a leader as the ailing C. I. O. chief, Philip Murray.

I know there are now previously unheard of vacations, welfare funds, hospitalization and death benefits for the longshoremen—all won in the past five years—and that the fancy-phrased intellectual critics who love to lacerate your dad, but who have never been closer to smoke and soot than their own special college brand pipe tobacco, never point out these gains.

I know that after the bombing of longshoremen's headquarters in Jersey, by the toughest union men in the world, your dad sent in Pat Connolly to bust up the mob—and that Pat knows that at any minute he might be blasted out of the labor movement by a well placed hand grenade.

And I know, too, that your dad sat, for days, in the New York Federal courtroom waiting for Sen. Kefauver to call him to the witness chair and that he kept asking Kefauver's counsel to question him publicly.

• • •

I KNOW THAT on Kefauver's desk, right now, is a letter from your dad, protesting against not being heard before the committee wrote its report. Your dad would have told how he moved into Brooklyn and took some of the A. F. L. International Longshoremen Association locals from the hands of Albert (The Executioner) Anastasia.

But it is also known that the Kefauver committee believes that at least 10 billion of the 40 billion dollars taken by the crime combine each year comes off the waterfronts on which your father's unions operate.

And many of us know that Kefauver got hundreds of letters from longshoremen, bitter workers, saying they were terrorized by rackets in your father's locals. In the gang fights within the union, men have been maimed, men have had their feet burned so they'd quit the city, automobiles have been exploded, bombs thrown and some men never ever got home to their family dinner tables, Marie.

I agree with your dad that he is no cop, that the district attorneys and police commissioners of the big towns should move in and clean up—and then the union leadership would cooperate. Of course, this is the time to ask the mayors and police why there's been no follow-up on Kefauver.

But that's not enough. A labor leader must father his people. If they are frightened or hurt, he must protect them, no matter what the cost. And sometimes the cost is heavy. I learned that from my dad. Otherwise, the people turn from you. I hope you understand.

Cordially,
VICTOR RIESEL.

On Dieting

By Hal Boyle

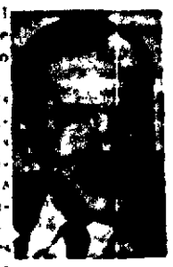
NEW YORK (AP)—The only thing in America today more boring than going on a diet is—to have to listen to someone else who is on a diet

The only difference between having a friend to go on an excursion or a diet is that you don't have to watch him show colored home movies of his diet You miss the film, but you get the dialogue

But I suppose it will be only a matter of time until people do start showing you before-and-after movies of their diets—and what happened along the way

A diagram will flash on the screen and your friend's voice will ramble complacently through the darkness

Now watch closely I am going to eat a piece of radioactive sugar and I want you to see what it does to me"



HAL BOYLE

Well he eats the cube of sugar It gallops down his esophagus churns around his stomach And then—zing—it races over and pulls a dive into the deep part of adjustable creek on the right

See it sparkles as it emphasizes Now it will start darkening your coffee and look like tar

No, I won't I never will. I like sugar and cream in my coffee And I don't want to look at the innards of my friends on 16 millimeter film. When I eat a cube of sugar anyway it doesn't turn into blubber. It just tastes good.

• • •

FOR 25,000 YEARS it took all the courage, skill, and energy of mankind to get most people all the food they wanted to eat. But in the United States for the last 25 years more and more people have found it takes all their courage to keep from eating all they want They should move to China or India—and get back to the first problem

The worst assumption of professional dieters is that you naturally ought to do what they do—and that what is wrong with them is also wrong with you Take a man with gallstones or a lady with appendicitis. They have a certain pride in their ailment because they have it and you probably don't. It sets them apart. But they don't insist that you have an operation just because they must In fact, they'd rather you wouldn't.

• • •

BUT DIETERS ARE a different race entirely. If they are overweight and you are pleasingly plump—well, if they decide to start counting their calories they'll hardly rest until you do, too

Why? Certainly I'd do something about it if I had a gallstone. But I don't mind being pleasingly plump—pleasing to me, that is. I have been rib-thin. I've been overweight. I feel better and I like more people better when I have the extra weight Lots of normal men who don't beat their wives or bite their children are like that.

Medical statistics show that lean people live longer on the average than do fat people. But I've known cheerful fat people who lived to a fine old age, and I've known grumpy thin people who died young.

You don't measure life by an undertaker's calendar. You measure it by what the years bring—not how many years you endure.

• • •

THE IMPORTANT THING isn't whether you weigh more than some doctor or charm school expert thinks you should. It's why you weigh more. If the fat feels good, keep it. If it bothers you, ask why.

All people don't get barrel-shaped for the same reason. Many who go on diets today don't overeat because they're hungry. They stuff themselves because they are worried, insecure, mentally or physically lazy, someone doesn't love them, or they don't love anyone themselves. But they should not blame the blubber on food, and they won't cure their real troubles by cutting down on food. They need to change themselves inside—not just what they put inside them.

Motto for dieters:

"If you shirk life, you can't improve it just by shirking the table"

A bake sale and bazaar is to be held May 12 at the Millard Hunt Appliance Store on West Center street. Rev. Henry Shaeffer closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served by the hostess. what they call "background"—and for which they enjoy anonymity. Honorable newspapermen respect these confidences, but the information thus acquired finds its way into the news.

• • •

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, news-gatherers who dig deeper than this and who have less respect for truth and honorable methods. There are hidden contacts with disgruntled, susceptible employes Occasionally these are discovered and somebody is removed, but the business goes on. For in a huge, rambling bureaucracy, there will always be weak and wicked spots.

When a great majority of the members of a department are fighting against the same person, who may be an official in the organization itself, the meanness of these attacks defies description. Bits of unverified gossip emerge; private expense accounts are given out with the intention of discrediting in personal and petty ways the object of vengeance.

President Roosevelt was well aware of this. To his credit, be it said that he deplored it. Harry Hopkins was always opposed to it, and hence he treated the lower ranges of the State Department with suspicion and contempt. Hopkins ultimately became one of a long succession of people whom Roosevelt used to by-pass the Department in critical contacts in foreign relations

• • •

SECRETARY HULL resented this by-passing of his department, but could do nothing to eliminate the cause He excelled in some matters, but since he was not a trained administrator he never had a firm hand on the lower ranges of his department.

Now, since Acheson is the perfect and not-too-gentle knight of State Department practices, and since he is fighting for his life, we may expect to see some strange jungle fighting.

That places the responsibility upon Congress to place the true facts before the country.
